

RALPH MCGILL

Kennedy for Vice President

John Fitzgerald Kennedy is a name which will be heard with increasing frequency during the days that remain before the Democratic convention convenes.

The young United States senator from Massachusetts is a dark horse, coming up fast. He may very well become the vice presidential nominee.

Bay State Democratic stalwarts have, naturally, led the fight for him. But Connecticut's Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff is equally persuaded. He declares the presence of Sen. Kennedy on the ticket could well mean the difference between victory and defeat in November.

Chances

New England will have 104 votes at the convention. Massachusetts, with 40, has the largest total. Connecticut follows with 20, Rhode Island with 16, Maine 14, New Hampshire 8 and Vermont 6.

There has not been a Roman Catholic on the presidential ticket since the late Al Smith was nominated by the Democrats at Dallas in 1928. The New Yorker was also a frank and honest wet. This was in the midst of the prohibition era, and the extremists on each side were like extremists on any issue — dogmatic and uncompromising.

It was a time, too, when there was prejudicial agitation and exploitation of the religious issue. Many church leaders in the South and Midwest opposed Al Smith's nomination, and later his candidacy, on the grounds he had espoused repeal of the prohibition law. Without question this position masked a very considerable anti-Catholic sentiment as well.

Today

Despite all the prejudice arrayed against him, Al Smith did not lose all the South. Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina and Louisiana remained Democratic in the "Deep South."

Indeed, only Florida, Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina deserted to the Republicans. In the Southwest, Texas did the same. Riding the great boom, soon to collapse in his face, Herbert Hoover was elected.

Democrat Chiefs In Chicago Expect Unity on Rights

CHICAGO, Aug. 5—The Democratic high command forecast tonight substantial party unity on civil rights and an early ballot nomination of a presidential candidate.

State GOPs Cool on Aid To Stassen

By ELKIN TAYLOR

Harold Stassen's "dump-Nixon" efforts are not likely to find any convention support from Georgia Republicans.

A survey of Georgia Republican leaders Sunday found no sympathy for Stassen's action or suspected motives. Most Republicans questioned said they felt the presidential aide's move to make Gov. Christian Herter the vice presidential candidate was ill-timed.

SAYS SOLID FOR NIXON

National Republican Committeeman Robert B. Snodgrass of Atlanta said he believes the entire Georgia delegation to the convention in San Francisco will be for Nixon.

He praised the vice president for "a very wonderful job." He said he has not conferred with the delegates recently, "but the last time I spoke with any of them, they were all for Nixon."

'CAN'T GO ALONG'

He added he has "heard little criticism" of the vice president. "I couldn't go along with Mr. Stassen on this matter," he said.

The DeKalb County Republican chairman, Charles A. Moye, admitted that Stassen "may be right" in his charge that Nixon is not as good a vote-getter as other Republicans.

Rep. Blitch Sees Quick Plank Accord

Rep. Iris Blitch asserted Sunday that the Democratic platform committee would have little trouble in nailing down its planks at the 1956 convention.

Regarding the forces of New York Gov. Averell Harriman, the Homerville representative said: "Only one and a half or two per cent of the members (108) are Harriman backers, and if they do any caucusing, it will be done in a phone booth."

Carl Hinshaw Dies; California Representative

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Rep. Carl Hinshaw (R-Calif.), a member of Congress since 1938, died tonight at Bethesda Naval Hospital. He was 62.

The hospital said death resulted from extensive pneumonia, complicated by congestive heart failure.

He is survived by his widow, Roberta; two sons, John V. Hinshaw, of New York City, and William R. Hinshaw, of the University of California; and his mother, Mrs. William Wade Hinshaw, of Washington.

Hinshaw was born in Chicago July 28, 1894. He moved to Pasadena, Calif., in 1929.

Snodgrass said he felt Stassen is "within his rights" in opening up talk of a vice presidential candidate other than Nixon. He added that he felt Nixon will win the nomination.

Bill Shaw of Atlanta, secretary of the party's state central committee, said he feels the Republicans will have a better chance to take Georgia with Nixon than with another vice presidential candidate.

Wed on $20 Raise, Wilson Says Spending d Billion a Worry Now

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—At a Pentagon reception the other night, Secretary of Defense Wilson talked a bit about love and money.

He said that when as a young engineer he got a raise from $60 to $80 a month he decided to get married. His wife had the more courage, he added, since she agreed to marry him.

The secretary, who went on to higher-paying jobs, said marriage on that pay helped teach him the value of money.

"Even today," he said, "I worry when I spend a billion dollars."

Nixon Asks Church Aid Integration

RIDGECREST, N.C., Aug. 5 (AP)—Vice President Nixon urged churches today to "help create the climate of understanding and good will which is essential" to carry out the Supreme Court's school desegregation decision.

In a prepared speech, Nixon told a Baptist Home Mission conference that on the "thorny issue of race relations... bitterness and tension are mounting by the hour."

The vice president came to North Carolina to speak also at a Presbyterian men's council in nearby Montreat and at a Methodist summer assembly at Lake Junaluska.

MUM ON STASSEN

There was no mention in his prepared talk of efforts by Harold Stassen to replace him with Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter on the 1956 GOP national ticket.

In the course of the struggle over school integration, Nixon said "fundamental religious and moral ideals are being lost sight of. You can bring them back before the conscience of all Americans."

"These are the ideals of the basic dignity of all men, our equal rights, our brotherhood under the fatherhood of God. If these ideals were fully accepted, there would be much less bitterness over the means used to realize them."

MODERATE APPROACH

Without expressly referring to the Supreme Court's 1954 decision declaring racially segregated public schools unconstitutional, Nixon said:

"The Supreme Court has wisely given time to implement its decision. A moderate approach is the only one which will work. Political

Catholic Schools' Integration In N.O. Delayed for a Year

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5 (AP)—Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, who has declared segregation "morally wrong and sinful," today said almost all Catholic schools of the New Orleans archdiocese would remain racially separated at least one more year.

For the first time the archbishop also publicly indicated some integration had been accomplished in the elementary schools of his parochial system.

PASTORAL LETTER

In a pastoral letter read at all Masses in the Deep South archdiocese, the Roman Catholic prelate said integration would be postponed until at least September 1957.

He added those schools already integrated would continue that way.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry C. Bezou, superintendent of archdiocesan schools, later said a few elementary schools had been integrated in recent years. He would not name them or disclose how many students were involved.

"It was accomplished without fanfare or publicity," said Msgr. Bezou.

In the pastoral letter, Archbishop Rummel promised that general integration, when it came, would be moderate and gradual, affecting the elementary schools one grade at a time. The archbishop did not mention secondary schools.

"Our declaration against racial segregation as outlined in the pastoral letter published in the churches of the archdiocese on Feb. 11, 1956, still holds true as a guide of Catholic conduct," added Archbishop Rummel.

West's Diplomatic Losses In Suez Crisis To Grow

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—The Western powers already have suffered grave losses in the Suez Canal crisis, diplomatic officials said today.

These losses, they said, are of three kinds:

1. Hopes of re-establishing stability in the Middle East, the central theme of U.S. policy in the area, have gone a-glimmering.

2. Relations between the Western powers, particularly Britain and France, and the so-called "uncommitted third" of the world have been damaged deeply.

3. A breach between the United States on the one hand and Britain and France on the other has been opened—or brought into the open—on general policy toward the Middle East and toward the nationalist demands of newly independent peoples.

The proposed conference on Suez is more likely to accentuate than to eliminate these losses, it was said.

Reports from Iraq and Lebanon indicated today that these two countries, usually more friendly to the West than other Arab states, are supporting President Nasser. The position announced by Premier Nuri Said of Iraq was a significant breach in the political unity of the Baghdad Pact group of nations—Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan, and Britain.

SYRIA MAY CUT OIL

Among Middle Eastern diplomats here there was serious discussion, meanwhile, of the probability that if Britain and France used force against Egypt, Syria would cut the pipelines from the oil fields of the Arabian peninsula to the Mediterranean. All the operating pipelines pass through Syria.

Britain's and France's dilemma, as seen by these diplomats, is as follows:

If they knuckle under to Nasser's nationalization of the Suez Canal Co., their prestige as major powers would be shattered.

Lebanon, Iraq Warn West, Back Nasser

while Arab neighbors lined up behind Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser—including Britain's friend Iraq—in defending Egypt's right to nationalize the Suez Canal.

LEBANESE WARNING

President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon, traditionally moderate in Arab politics, warned the West in a speech that any antagonistic move toward Egypt might lead to "the West losing forever the confidence and cooperation of Mideast peoples."

The British Foreign Office said "no comment" to the Iraq announcement saying she "stands beside Egypt in the dispute over the Suez issue."

The Iraq communique, issued after Premier Nuri Said arrived in Baghdad from London, described nationalization as "the doubtless right of any nation."

Iraq is one of Britain's main sources of oil.

'WHERE'S NASSER'

Britain's "Red Devils"—regarded as an emergency fire brigade unit—sailed for the Mediterranean in high spirits and cries of "Where's Nasser." Hastily chalked signs on their vehicles read "Look out Nasser, here we come."

Wearing their red berets and camouflage tunics and carrying full battle equipment, the 1,200 troops boarded the aircraft carrier Theseus prepared for any eventually arising from Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal.

Boarding with the parachute troops were a royal armored artillery unit.

The troop movement broke into Britain's biggest holiday weekend of the summer, the August bank holiday, and struck a somber note in a nation that has not had time to forget World War II. There were tearful partings from mothers, wives and sweethearts at rail-

Thundershowers, Heat Peak of 94 Due Next 2 Days

North Georgians and Atlantans can expect widely scattered thundershowers Monday with warm temperatures and partly cloudy skies, according to the weather bureau.

Predicted temperature extremes for Monday and Tuesday are a low of 72 with a high of 94. Sunday's extremes were 72 and 91.

The weather bureau has registered only 32.09 inches of rain so far this year as opposed to an average of 32.71 inches for the same period. Rainfall thus is a little more than half-an-inch off the average.

11 Soapy and Stripped Prisoners Slither Free

SANTA ANA, Calif., Aug. 5 (AP)—Eleven slippery prisoners soaped their bodies and slithered four stories to freedom through a ventilator shaft at the Orange County jail today. Six of them were quickly recaptured.

The eleven men stripped and soaped themselves to ease through an opening only 10x16 inches, officers said. They used a rope fashioned from strips of mattress cover to climb through the widening shaft from a first-floor cell to the roof, and then to drop from the roof to the ground.

Sheriff's Capt. C. L. Gathright said a small saw was used to cut through two bars at either end of the shaft. All the prisoners were in a felony tank awaiting trial or sentencing.

One, Frank M. Laurent, 19, had pleaded guilty to murder and armed robbery charges. Laurent was one of four prisoners taken after they wrecked a stolen car while fleeing arrest in nearby Compton.

The two others recaptured were arrested in a stolen car in Garden Grove, officers reported.

Gathright said the escape, apparently planned for "a couple of months," started about midnight and was discovered at a checkup by the jailer about 1 a.m.

Gathright added the plotters had peeked away at the brick and concrete wall to remove a steel grill covering the opening to the ventilator shaft in the felony tank. Gathright said one of the 11 with the rope probably around his waist had to climb four stories up the square shaft—approximately 3x3 feet—with only cement corners as holds for his hands and feet.

Royal Dog Chews Out Guard's Seat But Prince Charles Gains Respect

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Guards Lt. John Morrough-Bernard possessed a pair of ripped pants and a mounting admiration for young Prince Charles today as the result of being nipped by a dog from Buckingham Palace.

"It was deeply embarrassing," said the dashing—but not quite dashing enough for safety—young officer as he related the incident, which took place last week.

The drama of the royal dog, a royal prince and the seat of a guardsman's trousers took place in the royal park of St. James, located near the palace.

Dressed in his off-duty clothes—a dark blue suit, stiff collar, derby hat and a furled umbrella—Lt. Morrough-Bernard, of the Irish Guards, was making his dignified way across the park. One of the royal corgis, a long-bodied breed of Welsh working dog with short legs, caught sight of him.

BEWARE ROYAL DOG Charlie Was Worried

"The dog was being exercised by Prince Charles, Princess Anne and a nurse," said the lieutenant. "I was a few yards away when the dog came whirling toward me, yapping loudly."

The officer made a small dash, but he was too late.

"I half turned," he said. "The dog leaped, made one snap—and I headed back to barracks."

Prince Charles, to the royal manner born, ran after the officer, who was beating a dignified retreat and half holding the snagged seat of his trousers. The 7-year-old prince, who will be king of England some day, made anxious inquiries. The guardsman assured his royal highness that although his pants were torn his skin was whole.

Soviets Rip West's Suez Talk Motives

Red Press Heralds Demand For Altering Scope of Parley

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)
MOSCOW, Aug. 5.—The Soviet press made clear today that Moscow will not accept the Western proposal for an international conference on the status of the Suez Canal unless its terms of reference are drastically altered.

Britain, France and the United States have invited the Soviet Union and a number of other countries to a conference opening Aug. 16 to discuss the problem of ensuring navigation through the canal following nationalization of the Suez Canal Co. by Egypt.

PROPAGANDA CHIEF'S BLAST

The Soviet government has made no official reply to the invitation delivered Friday by British Ambassador William Hayter, but the tone of the press comment today was increasingly critical of the Western powers' motives in calling the meeting.

F. V. Konstantinov, chief of the agitation and propaganda section of the Communist party central committee, accused the Western powers in Pravda of "hounding" Egypt and trying by every means to prevent it from realizing its rights. As chief propagandist in the Soviet Union, Konstantinov's bitter attack on the Western powers assumed particular importance, in the view of observers here.

CHARGE IMPERIALISM

Sovetskaya Rossiya, party newspaper for the Russian federation, accused the West of seeking to restore foreign control of the canal as a prelude to reasserting "imperialist domination" over the whole of Egypt. The paper said the tripartite statement issued in London had aroused justified indignation in Egypt.

In a lengthy article by its foreign affairs commentator, G. Dadyants, the newspaper said, "the very fact that such a (London) conference took place and a problem that concerns only Egypt was discussed by representatives of the Western powers is evidence of inadmissible interference in the internal affairs of an independent state."

LIP SERVICE TO EGYPT

It charged the London invitation was fundamentally an attempt to "internationalize" the canal while paying lip service to Egyptian sovereignty. The paper charged that the Western powers want to create a 10-power canal administration with governmental as well as operating functions.

Sovetskaya Rossiya asserted that foreign intervention in the canal dispute was "all the more unsavory" because Egypt had pledged to maintain freedom of navigation through the waterway. The Western move, it charged, is merely a pretext for intervention by "imperialist politicians," infuriated by Cairo's foreign policy.

ASKS CHANGE IN PARLEY

Dadyants did not, however, rule out Soviet participation in the Suez conference. He inveighed against the Western powers for stepping up the "war psychosis" and seeking to decide Egypt's destiny "behind closed doors," but he did not bar the possibility of a conference with broader representation and different terms of reference.

Many diplomats here believe the Soviet Union would be reluctant to reject outright any bid for a negotiated settlement on Suez. Instead they predict Moscow will urge that the conference guest list be broadened to include Poland, Bulgaria, East Germany and possibly other Communist states. They also think the Soviet Union will insist that no hint of punitive action against Egypt will be made in the terms of reference.

The Soviet press has made clear that this country will never acquiesce in restoration of the Suez Canal Co. to its former position. The Moscow Pravda charged today that the London statement in fact an effort to do just this. It said such plans "obviously have no chance of success."

Dr. Louis D. Newton Sunday said he wished to make it clear that he had no part in the release of a story which appeared in Saturday's Constitution concerning the possible erection of a Hilton hotel in Atlanta.

In a statement, Dr. Newton said:

"The story in which I was made to appear as committing Mr. Conrad Hilton to establishing a hotel in Atlanta was totally unauthorized. When called by a Constitution reporter I declined to discuss the conference and specifically stated that there was no release for the press insofar as I was concerned."

(No part of Saturday's story came from Dr. Newton. The Constitution regrets any misunderstanding concerning the source of the information.)

Stay Flexible in Pressing for Equality, Faulkner Advises Leaders in NAACP

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (UP)—Author William Faulkner today advised Negroes to "be flexible" in pressing for civil rights equality. Writing in the September issue of Ebony, national Negro magazine, Faulkner proposed "Gandhi's way" as a method to guide anti-segregation efforts.

"If I were a Negro," the Mississippi-born novelist said, "I would advise our elders and leaders to make this our unyielding and inflexible course—a course of inflexible and unyielding flexibility directed against not just schools, but against all the public institutions from which we are interdicted, as is being done against the Montgomery, Ala., bus lines.

"But always with flexibility: inflexible and unyielding only in hope and will, but flexible always to adapt to time and place and circumstance."

Faulkner said if he were a Negro "I would be a member of NAACP, since nothing else in our U. S. culture has yet held out to my race that much of hope."

"But I would remain only under conditions:

"That it recognize the most serious quantity in our problem which, so far as I know, it has not been publicly recognized yet; that it make the same flexibility the watchword of its methods...."

Faulkner, Pulitzer and Nobel prizewinner who has stirred controversy with several statements on the segregation issue recently said that "above all, I would say this to the leaders of our race: 'We must learn responsibility, the responsibility of equality.'"

He stressed a definition of equality as "the right to opportunity to be free and equal and will work to gain it, and then work to keep it."

Responsibilities of equality, he said are those "of physical cleanliness and of moral rectitude, of a conscience capable of choosing between right and wrong and a will capable of obeying it, or reliability toward other men, the pride of independence of charity or relief."

Was a Spy, Red-Released Briton Says

LONDON, Aug. 5 (UP)—A London newspaper said today that a Briton who was jailed in Communist Hungary for more than three years on espionage charges has confessed that he was a spy for Britain.

Reynolds News printed an interview with Edgar Sanders, 50, former accountant for America's Standard Electric Co. in Budapest.

"I was never a paid spy, but I certainly passed information on to our military attaché," Sanders told the paper.

The gray-haired former executive now works as a $33-a-week bus driver. He was released in 1953.

Schoolteacher Knocked Down, Dragged to Altar

DARLINGTON, England, Aug. 5 (UP)—Pauline Ellington, a pretty schoolteacher, was literally bowled over by a handsome football player.

Miss Ellington was in a crowd watching a rugby match when fullback Bob Woffatt made a tackle and crashed into her. The blow broke her leg.

Two weeks later after the two met in a bus, she in a plaster cast, Woffatt asked if they hadn't met before.

"Yes, you broke my leg," she replied.

Yesterday they were married in Darlington.

Sympathy Pouring In To McKeon

PORT ROYAL, S.C., Aug. 5 (UP)—Expressions of sympathy from all parts of the country kept the telephone ringing today in the cottage home of Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon.

"I'd like to thank all the people in the country—honest to God, I would," said the former Marine drill instructor who yesterday was sentenced to a bad-conduct discharge and nine months at hard labor for leading a Parris Island death march.

"I'd like to shake their hands and thank them for being so kind and thoughtful," McKeon said.

REVIEW BY THOMAS

McKeon, 31, and his wife Betty, who is expecting their third child this week, took the sentence philosophically, hoping that it would be reduced by Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas, the convening authority of the McKeon court-martial.

Thomas must review the findings of the seven-officer court, which on Friday found McKeon guilty of negligent homicide and drinking against regulations. Six Marine recruits drowned last April 8 on a march into Ribbon Creek, which McKeon testified he ordered to teach his platoon discipline. Thomas may approve, reduce or suspend the sentence—or dismiss it entirely.

In nine months I'll be free physically," McKeon said, "but mentally I'll never forget those six kids—or their parents either." McKeon would not comment on the verdict or the sentence, except to say of the court:

"They had a job to do and they did it."

WORRIES ABOUT IT
But he is still the dedicated drill instructor at heart, even though he now is sentenced to discharge from the corps in which he had intended to spend his life.

"We have got to get these lads squared away," he said. "I've seen it time and time again. They come in and none of them are in shape physically. I worry about it. I really do."

"After all, I'm not getting any younger. Somebody's got to defend this country. It's like the farm system in professional baseball. Somebody, some kids, have got to come in and take the place of the big leaguers who get too old."

Hungary Grounds Plane; U.S. Envoy Goes by Car

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 5 (UP)—Christian M. Ravndal, U.S. minister to Hungary for the last five years, left Budapest today under difficulties imposed by the Hungarian Communist authorities.

They grounded a special U.S. military transport plane sent to fetch him and he had to motor his way out to Vienna.

Ravndal remarked wryly as he left Budapest: "They—the Hungarians—want to make a pleasant last impression on me."

The action followed a farewell party Ravndal gave at his luxurious valley home outside Budapest Friday to which top Hungarian officials had been invited. Only a deputy premier showed up.

American observers here said it was a characteristic farewell for the outspoken Ravndal, whose first task in Budapest was to negotiate the release of four captured American fliers who were forced down in Hungary in 1951.

Ravndal was scheduled to fly from Budapest airport shortly before noon today, Hungarian time. But when his plane appeared the Hungarians refused to let it take off.

They gave as reason that flying was dangerous because of the alleged presence in the air of many balloons carrying anti-Communist

Technical Aid Given Latins

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The United States contributed an all-time high of $72,600,000 towards technical cooperation and emergency programs in Latin America during the 1956 fiscal year.

The International Cooperation Administration announced today that this was the largest amount of U.S. non-military aid to Latin America in any one year since the start of the program in 1942.

U.S. programs of technical assistance began in Latin America when the Institute of Inter-American Affairs was set up as a U.S. government corporation to administer technical cooperation programs.

These programs in Latin America financed by ICA amount to $29,376,000 in the 1956 fiscal year. Matching of funds of local governments have grown rapidly in recent years. This year the Latin American nations put up $50,000,000, nearly double the amount contributed by the U.S.

Candidate's Home Blasted In S. Korea

SEOUL, South Korea, Aug. 5 (UP)—A home-made bomb was thrown yesterday into the home near Taegu of an opposition party candidate in South Korea's forthcoming local elections.

National police said today they did not know who threw it but that no one was hurt in this first bombing-throwing incident since campaigning started last month.

Nationwide elections for mayors and councils of villages, towns and cities will be held Wednesday. Council members of Seoul city and nine provinces will be elected Aug. 12.

An opposition paper reported from Kunwi, some 150 miles south of here, that an opposition Democratic party candidate was hospitalized yesterday after being badly beaten by unidentified youths.

Georgia Can Match U.S. For Roads, Officials Say

Lawson Sees First Work in '57, Engineers Keeping Pace With Aid

Georgia highway authorities Sunday painted a rosy picture of the state's participation in the mammoth new federal-aid highway program.

State Highway Board Chairman Roger Lawson said the state will be able to keep up with financial and engineering requirements of the program. Possibility that states might find it hard to keep up with their part in the program was raised at a conference of state highway authorities held in Atlanta in June.

Gov. Griffin said a week ago that the state would participate "100 per cent" in the program. The highway bill calls for Georgia to add ten per cent to $39 million in federal aid for interstate highway construction and 50 per cent to $20 million for primary and secondary roads during the first year.

NO NEW TAXES

Lawson stated that Georgia's share will require no new taxes.

Speaking over The Atlanta Constitution's television program, Press Gallery, Lawson predicted the first work will begin in Georgia next year. He said "very considerable progress" has been made toward completion of planning for the first phase of the work.

Also appearing on the program were Roy Flynt, state highway planning engineer, and B. F. McWhorter, Southeastern division engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

McWhorter said that acquisition of rights-of-way for the new four-lane highways will be the toughest problem. Lawson agreed with him. Asked whether "pressure" had been brought against the highway board in right-of-way proceedings, Lawson replied, "I suppose pressure is as suitable a word as any."

RIGHT-OF-WAY PROBLEMS

He said, "You will always encounter considerable trouble and difficulty in acquiring right-of-way. . . . In this program, right-of-way problems multiply."

"We will need cooperation, understanding and patience of all parties concerned," Lawson stated.

McWhorter and Lawson said the right-of-way problem will be "considerably" lessened because of the fact federal money is available to purchase land at once.

The panel said the large new interstate highways will bypass many small towns, but "they won't be harmed by that." Flynt said if the highways were built through some of the towns—especially the smaller ones—"there wouldn't be any town left."

INTERCHANGE ROADS

McWhorter said interchange roads would leave the highways in the vicinity of nearly each town, even small ones, so they will not be cut off from traffic.

And, he said, the towns do not have to worry about business competition from concerns on the highways since they will be "limited access highways." He said no businesses can be built on them.

"These roads actually will help them," he commented.

Questioning the Press Gallery guests were Howell Jones, city editor of The Constitution, and Albert Riley, political writer. Editor Ralph McGill moderated the panel.

Atlanta U. Straw Vote

On Adlai, Ike Tuesday

There will be straws in the political winds Tuesday at Atlanta University summer school.

The students will cast straw ballots from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on the assumption that President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson will be the presidential nominees.

Results will be announced Wednesday, according to Dr. C. A. Bacote, who arranged the balloting.

City Play Day At Grant Park To Draw 500

Champions from Atlanta's 28 play areas will demonstrate their skills Tuesday in the annual city-wide Play Day at Grant Park.

More than 500 boys and girls ranging up to 18 years of age will vie in contests which will include 50 and 75-yard dashes, potato, sack and relay races, baseball throwing, paddle tennis and horseshoe pitching.

The program, sponsored by the Atlanta Parks and Recreation Department, will match youngsters who were winners in competition on their own playgrounds.

Activities begin at 10 a.m.

The day will be climaxed with awards for the winners and a watermelon-cutting. Ribbons will be awarded to individual event winners and a silver loving cup presented to the high-point playground or area.

Emory Lists Fall Term Faculty Additions

Appointments of an associate professor and four assistant professors are among faculty additions announced at Emory University by Dr. Goodrich C. White, president, following a recent meeting of the board of trustees' executive committee. The appointments are effective Sept. 1.

Dr. Elliot Juni was named associate professor of bacteriology. The new assistants are: Dr. Henry Sharp, mathematics; Dr. Frank J. Charvat, business administration; Dr. Duane Belt, anatomy, and Dr. Donald P. Groth, pharmacology and biochemistry.

Other new appointments are: Dr. Edmund W. DeMaar, visiting assistant professor of pharmacology; Miss Melba H. Hill, instructor in bacteriology; Dr. Cooper C. Clements, instructor in psychology; F. Lane Hardy, instructor in mathematics; Grant A. Kaiser, instructor in the Romance Languages; William C. Partin, instructor in physical education; Allen Rebuck, instructor in biology, and Dr. Jack A. Thompson, instructor in surgery.

Dr. James C. Coberly, Dr. C. Warren Davidson, Dr. Armand E. Hendee, Dr. David S. Hubbard, Dr. W. Baird Hudgins, Dr. Thomas F. Sellers Jr., Dr. William R. Vogler Jr., Dr. William P. White and Dr. John E. Skandalakis.

Billy Graham Undesirable Contacts Are Inevitable

QUESTION: In the school where my children attend, there has been much dishonesty and even some immorality. I don't like to have my children associate with such people, but cannot afford to send them to a private school. Are there any steps I can take to protect my children?

—C. A. A.

ANSWER: There is a danger of protecting our children too much. That is, we can withdraw them from society as it is until they come to have a pharisaic attitude. We must face the real situation. These dishonest and immoral children are a normal cross section of humanity and your children will always have to live in contact with them.

The wise course of action is to give them the spiritual and moral training and example at home that will equip them for working and doing business with such people. They will be more likely to develop strong spiritual powers through opposition than through living in a situation where they never need to make decisions.

The important thing is to give them the grounding they need in the Scriptures, let them see sin in its real light, and show them that with Christ as Saviour and as their guide, they can face opposition and win. Their small victories will prepare them for the larger battles ahead.

Army Reserves Begin Training At Depot Today

Army reservists from Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee will begin their 15-day active summer duty at the Atlanta General Depot Monday.

Members of ordnance units, the 357 men will receive on-the-job training in field maintenance and field supply.

Georgia units are the 304th (Depot Supply) from Dublin, the 988th (Field Maintenance) from Alma, and the 247th (Depot Supply) from Ft. Valley.

This is the third group of reservists from the Southeast to train at the Atlanta General Depot this summer.

A Doctor Discusses Political Diagnoses

Dr. David R. Rutstein, professor of preventive medicine at Harvard Medical School since 1947, member of the staff of Massachusetts General Hospital, and vice president of the American Heart Association, has written an article "Doctors and Politics." It appears in the current Atlantic Monthly.

Dr. Rutstein factually and pitilessly reveals the "politics" in the medical statements about President Eisenhower's health and in the diagnosis reports. He said, in part:

"When President Eisenhower's recovery from his acute coronary thrombosis was practically complete, his physicians announced on Feb. 13, 1956: 'The President should be able to carry on an active life satisfactorily for another five to 10 years.' This publicized decision by his physicians gave President Eisenhower no choice on medical grounds of refusing to run for re-election, and this in effect was confirmed by the President's television announcement of Feb. 20, 1956. This episode demonstrates the powerful influence a medical decision may have on our national history. It causes us to re-examine the process by which such decisions are reached and later interpreted to the public. . . .

"On June 8, 1956, President Eisenhower was suddenly taken with acute abdominal pain which was diagnosed by his physicians within 12 hours as 'ileitis.' It is very doubtful that any physician can make an unequivocal diagnosis of this disease in a patient whose presenting symptom is intestinal obstruction unless the physician has had previous knowledge of the existence of this disease in the patient. During the course of President Eisenhower's convalescence from acute coronary thrombosis, no mention had been made of this chronic illness. On May 13, less than one month before the President's chronically inflamed and scarred small intestine became suddenly obstructed, an X-ray examination of his stomach and intestine (gastro-intestinal series) was reported as showing a 'normally functioning digestive tract,' but no mention was made of the presence or absence of any structural defect. . . .

"When information of previous gastro-intestinal attacks was made public . . . together with confirmation at operation of the previous diagnosis of ileitis, it became clear that the acute obstruction was merely a late episode in the course of a chronic illness and not a new disease beginning at age 65. . . .

"At no time did they (his physicians) give any indication that ileitis is a chronic disease with a rate of recurrence varying between one third and two thirds of those on whom operation is performed, depending on the stage of the disease, the type of surgery and the duration of follow-up. Neither did they indicate that the majority of recurrences come within the first year after operation. Nor was there any mention of the medical fact that difficulty might be anticipated in maintaining the President's nutrition and weight, or the further likelihood of future periods of disability from the disease. . . . There is no question that the relief of the intestinal obstruction improved the health of the President. On the other hand, the emergence of a second chronic illness cannot by any stretch of the imagination improve the total health status of the patient."

His conclusion, strongly asserted, is that doctors should stick to medicine and the medical facts and leave politics to the politicians.

In this we concur.

Is the Campus Radical A Disappearing Breed?

Heard anything lately about campus radicals?

The traditional seats of dissatisfaction and contempt for things as they are—our college campuses—have gone conservative. No longer are there complaints that eager youngsters are expressing themselves too loudly for liberty and rebellion. Throughout the nation's history many great intellectual and political movements have been born in debating societies and university organizations. From them have come governors, congressmen and even presidents. Each succeeding generation produced its quota of rebels who were not afraid to strike out against sacred mores.

Perhaps their activities have led to the present situation in which the old student enemies no longer exist. But on the other hand, does it mean intellectual sterility and stagnation and surrender to the pressures to conform?

Whatever it is, there is a change on college campuses. Students drive shiny new cars and the constant propaganda drum is that things are getting better and better. From another angle, the majority of youth know that the Soviet Union and communism are a terrible threat to national existence and they, therefore, must avoid any radical tendencies for fear of being called a Red.

The country was founded by young radicals and old ones, too. Its institutions were forged by non-conformists out to blaze new trails.

Are today's students becoming so fat and self-satisfied that there is no longer stimulus for thought?

Somehow the campus radicals of other days seem preferable to today's panty-raiders and devotees of rock 'n' roll.

J. P. Allen Was Symbol Of Spirit of Atlanta

J. P. Allen Sr., President of J. P. Allen and Co., and one of Atlanta's best-known and picturesque citizens, died Saturday of a heart attack while awaiting an airport bus which was to start him on a vacation journey. He was 80 years old.

Jim Allen was in a sense, a symbol of the spirit which built Atlanta. He began with M. Rich and Brothers, in 1904. Four years later he opened his own business, a small ready-to-wear shop on Whitehall street. It grew to its present prominence as one of the best-known of the Peachtree street stores.

Jim Allen was never at a loss for decision. A firm Democrat, he was an entertaining scourge to all his Republican friends at the Rotary Club and the several other social and business organizations of which he was a member. He liked sports and was a regular attendant at the Kentucky Derby, and a thorn in the flesh to local sports writers who pick losers in that race. He was a leader in civic enterprise.

His fellow businessmen honored him for several years by making him president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants Assn. He also served as state president of the Georgia merchants.

But it was as a person and friend that he was best known. His was a charm and a vitality which made him a distinct personality. The Atlanta Constitution joins with his many friends in an expression of sorrow and sympathy at his passing.

The Women Take Over As Securities Owners

The American version of capitalism is as lusty as it can be. Keith Funston, president of that symbol of capitalism, the New York Stock Exchange, reports that the latest survey on the subject showed that 8,630,000 persons held shares in the nation's publicly owned corporations.

The survey disclosed many interesting new facts. The number of foreigners investing in American enterprise is on the rise, a worldwide vote of confidence in our future. And women, for the first time in history, outnumbered men as owners of corporate shares.

The score in this latest skirmish in the battle of the sexes is 4,455,000 women shareholders to 4,175,000 men. Of the women owners of securities the big majority are housewives, further proof of the old, old adage that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world and writes the checks.

Citizens Might Probe Our Prison Camps, Too

The self-mutilation performed by a group of inmates at the Rock Quarry Prison and the prisoner's tales of brutal treatment at the hands of guards must not be allowed to obscure the fact that prison problems are no monopoly of Georgia's.

There are occasional and vicious outbreaks in prisons over the land. They spread from one prison to another like a contagion or a form of mass hysteria. Most recent is a sit-down strike by Connecticut charges of the law to get their grievances before prison officials and the public.

The governor of Connecticut ordered an investigation by a citizens' inquiry committee.

That, by the way, might be a good idea for Georgia. In addition to the probes by prison officials and the legislative committee, perhaps the governor should appoint a citizens' group to make an independent investigation.

A corroborative report from all groups would eliminate any tint of whitewash. In Connecticut or Georgia, complaints from within prison walls of poor conditions and mistreatment deserve full and complete airings.

At the same time, in these two states or any others, while rehabilitation is the goal, confinement is a penalty which has been inflicted for failure to act as decent members of society. Prison quarters are not expected to have the appeal of a resort hotel. Nor is the cuisine expected to match that of the French Line.

On the other hand, sadism has no place in the prison system, nor have conditions deliberately calculated to drive a man to despair and self-destruction.

Democrat Wonders If Republican Opinion Must Conform to Dictates of 'Palace Guard'

Macon — It looks as though Harold Stassen, who has convictions and the courage of those convictions, stands alone.

What's wrong with the rest of the Republicans? Do they fear to speak in opposition to Nixon or do they honestly favor his renomination?

Is Harold Stassen the only Republican in the country who has the courage to say that a candidate other than Nixon should be considered for the vice presidency?

Is it sacrilege to oppose the dictates of the so-called "Palace Guard" (such men as former Gov. Adams, National Chairman Hall, Gen. "Slick" Persons and their like)? Again I say, what's wrong with the Republicans?

Remember, boys, there is not much doubt Stassen is right.

So, come on, some Republican, any Republican and speak up! I'd like to know there is a second Republican in the country, even here in Democratic Georgia, who has the backbone to express his opinion.

Certainly the Republican Party can offer a better candidate than Nixon or they are beaten before they begin.

Estes' Liberal Views

Put Skids Under Him?

Cedartown — Please allow me to say a little something in support of Sen. Estes Kefauver.

He has been called a renegade senator by John Sammons Bell and worse by other Southerners for his views on the Supreme Court decision on segregation. Even so, his views are similar to those of Stevenson, Symington and the other so-called moderate candidates.

I am happy that Sen. Kefauver is withdrawing in favor of Stevenson, who is this year's primary champion. I feel the nomination should go to the primary winners. It should have gone to Kefauver in 1952, but to Stevenson this year.

My personal opinion is that most of these conservative Democrats in the South are opposed to Sen. Kefauver because of his record on such matters as public power and organized labor more than they are opposed to him on the segregation issue.

South Still Fighting

War on Social Plane?

Atlanta — I certainly agree with "An American" whose letter appeared in your columns recently regarding the fact that he is forced to feel like a "Yankee" since coming to Atlanta.

I was born and reared in South Carolina but moved away during the war. During the past 14 years I have associated with people from all over the United States and the phrase "Damyankee" entirely left my mind as I found that people are the same no matter where they live. Some are good; some are bad; some are friendly and others hostile.

I recently came to Atlanta to live and work and I found to my dismay that the people here are still fighting the War Between the States with the same vigor of old; that people who come from the "North" are looked upon as being "different" and no opportunity is lost to make them feel like intruders.

Bold Journalism Experiment Fails; The Vision Remains

Newspapermen in Georgia and the nation watched with extreme interest the production and development of the Gainesville Morning News, which ceased publication last Tuesday. Its eight-month career will continue to be studied by the profession. The Morning News was a bold experiment that challenged two established precedents in American newspapering.

By printing on offset and using photocomposition, which eliminates the "hot metal" type used on all but a handful of daily papers throughout the world, the Morning News hoped to achieve significant economies. Its production method, then, involved pioneering in a field in which there was relatively little daily experience.

The Morning News also began publication in the face of an economic trend in daily publishing that more and more limits even the larger cities of the nation to one newspaper, or a "morning-evening" combination published in one plant. The costs of production and the need for a high volume of business to meet those costs results in this trend: Not a single city in Georgia has two or more daily newspapers under separate ownership. Of the 85 cities in the nation with competing dailies not one is so small as Gainesville.

The newspaper industry expects some day to achieve a production system so low in cost that a small city can support several newspapers so well that all can afford independence of judgment and expression. That system may well be a "cold type" method similar to the one used by the Morning News.

But currently the machines available, the high-speed equipment, the production tools on hand to apply the process to daily newspapering haven't been developed to an extent that appreciably reduces costs. There exists what the scientists would call a technological lag. So the Morning News ran into the same economic problems as a paper of conventional printing methods plus the problems of experimenting and research.

Charles Hardy, part of Georgia's journalism tradition in the weekly field and the son of the late Albert S. Hardy, one of the state's newspaper pioneers, dreamed a big vision and deserves recognition for that vision. His staff, particularly Editor Paul Rilling, made a remarkable showing for a young newspaper and produced a newspaper of greater quality than some in the state that have published for many years.

Mr. Hardy and the other stockholders of the Gainesville News Publishing Co. met the fine traditions of Georgia journalism in producing their imaginative newspaper.

The company, now planning to concentrate on its commercial printing phase, will become, we trust, a vital and prosperous industry in this part of the state.

Have Faith; Truth Shall Free All Men

If there is a better place for peaceful rest than in a Pullman car of a fine train, I haven't yet found it. There is a little poem which expresses my sentiments: "This old town is a good old town—A better town I'll not be knowing—But there isn't a train I wouldn't ride—No matter where it's going." We had two full days on the Crescent Limited recently and they were wonderful. My plans were for a quick trip to Ocean Grove, N.J., to preach one day.

Then there developed an engagement to talk to a meeting of book publishers in New York which would add another day to the trip. Then came an invitation to Boston, so Mama decided to go along and we planned to make a week of it.

John and Sue in LaGrange offered to keep the children and blessings upon them for that! "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man keep his brother's children." It is good for children to get away from their parents sometimes and especially vice versa.

Boston is a thrilling city—the old quadrangle at Harvard, the very new and unique chapel at M.I.T., the historic places. We drove along the route of Paul Revere's famous ride and spent a night in Lexington. I have been there before, but standing on the green there never fails to bring tingles to my spine.

From history books one remembers the Minute Men who gathered there and how the British Maj. Pitcairn, with the backing of 400 Redcoats, ordered them to lay down their arms. No one obeyed. Instead, Capt. Parker said, "Stand your ground, don't fire unless fired upon, but if they mean to have war, let it begin here."

Only 75 against 400. Shots rang out. The engagement lasted just a few minutes but those brave souls lived up to their pledge: "We trust in God, that should the state of our affairs require it, we shall be ready to sacrifice our estates and everything dear in life, yea, and life itself in support of the common cause."

Standing at the birthplace of American liberty, I was moved to pray one of Peter Marshall's Senate prayers: "Lord, Jesus, Thou Who art the way, the truth and the life, hear us as we pray for the truth that shall make men free. Teach us that liberty is not only to be loved but also to be lived. Liberty is too precious a thing to be buried in books. It costs too much to be hoarded. Make us see that our liberty is not the right to do as we please, but the opportunity to please to do what is right."

That is something of what being an American means.

GOP Farm Plank Will Bear Watching

WASHINGTON—There is no assurance at this stage that either party is going to resist playing politics with the farm vote this year to the ultimate harm of the farmer—and everybody else. The outlook on the Democratic side is that the Chicago platform will promise to the farmer what can't be delivered; namely, high rigid price supports in the face of massive, mounting surpluses.

The outlook on the Republican side is that the San Francisco platform will fuff up what most of the Republicans really oppose; namely, high price supports which stimulate production more for storehouses than for sale. This in the hope that vagueness will permit Republican congressional candidates to run on both sides of the issue.

One of the most influential Midwestern Democratic senators remarked privately the other day: "There is one more election to be out of high rigid price supports. Come around to see me next January and we'll work out a sound farm program."

Is this trip necessary? Is it good for the farmer? Is it good for the nation? Is it even "good politics"?

True, the Eisenhower administration, with the aid of a presidential veto and with some misgivings and inner conflict, has resisted a level of subsidy and farm programs which have as their consequence a government-managed agriculture. But there are strong intraparty pressures playing on the Republican platform today in an effort to water down the President's position.

This danger is aggravated in a presidential-congressional election year.

Right now national farm policy is at a crossroads. The government is slowly, carefully rescuing

Thomas L. Stokes

The GOP Must Build From the Bottom Up

WASHINGTON—As a compelling reason why he is seeking another term in the White House, President Eisenhower cites his earnest desire to help rebuild the Republican Party or, as he put it in his first news conference since his operation June 9: "What we are talking about here is the importance to the country, and it happens at this moment the Republican Party apparently thinks I am still important to them and to the country."

"And since I believe so much in the Republican Party, and I believe that it needed rebuilding so badly, an effort which I have been making, as you well know, I said I would continue to try."

This aim of the President is well recognized. It is the aim, too, of leaders of the moderately progressive Eisenhower wing of the party and was the impulse behind its drive to get the President to run again.

In this, the need to rebuild the party was the chief argument and, it now develops, a telling one. To remake the party in what this group calls "the Eisenhower image" would take at least four more years—if it can be achieved in that time.

Their objectives is a middle-of-the-road party of moderation. How successful thus far has been this effort to rebuild the party which the President said is needed "so badly?"

In a practical way, at the local level, younger and more progressive Republicans have been able to make some headway to infiltrate state organizations and, in some cases, to get commanding influence. There has been quite an overturn in state party chairmen and infusion of new blood with the age-level lowered.

But this moderating influence has not permeated Congress—which can make or break administration policy—to the extent necessary to bring a real change in the party as an operating mechanism in the field of foreign and domestic policy.

This we saw demonstrated in the recent session where the conservative wing, still predominant in the party in Congress, supplied the Republican votes that defeated the school construction bill and supplied the votes that scaled foreign aid below the figure asked by the President.

We also discovered that the Eisenhower influence had not been strong enough at the grass roots to elect enough Republicans in the 1954 elections to permit the party to keep control of Congress.

So, midway in the Eisenhower administration, control was forfeited to the Democrats. Whether in the two years since that election the Eisenhower administration has got a strong enough hold in the party at the grass roots to reflect itself in Congress we can see better after the elections.

Unless that happens — unless the voters return a Republican Congress that will follow the President's leadership more than it did in the first four years of his tenure—the objective of the President to rebuild his party can hope for little success in a second Eisenhower administration—if there is one.

Any such reform as he envisages must come from the bottom up. It cannot come from the top down by fiat.

A Crisis Is Met

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5.—When the nagging pain of backache and neuralgia struck Chet Nichols this year, and kept striking, he didn't take a powder, which he could have done. He told the Milwaukee Braves he'd rather keep pitching and they bought him a ticket to the Atlanta Crackers.

On short observation, it appears the decision was one well formulated for all parties, Braves, Crackers and Nichols. Friday evening, in the boiling humidity of New Orleans, the left-handed son of a left-handed father made his first start and carried off a 2-1 victory over the Pelicans.

Nichols wasn't there at the end to be carried off the field on the shoulders of his associates. But that wasn't it. He'd been a stunning pitching mechanic for five and a fraction of years, and until he retired. It was his first start in over a month, and he hadn't gone nine since way back yonder in Wichita.

Sometime ago a sneaky little rumor got out the Manager Clyde King had been forced to take Nichols against his will, which wasn't exactly accurate. "You know I wanted a chance to see what he could do with him," King said. "A fellow who could pitch like Chet could, and who had the potential he's got and who'd had no more opportunity to me."

"Chet was the one who had to make the decision. The Milwaukee folks told him he could go home from Wichita and loaf the rest of the season with pay, if he wanted to. Chet talked with his wife about it. She said she thought he ought to come on to Atlanta and keep pitching. That's a smart baseball wife for you."

—In 1951, Top of the Roost

In 1951, when his beard was only peach fuzz and he was barely 20 years old, Nichols wrote his name in the book as the earned run leader of the National League. He had spent only two seasons as a pro, but he handled himself gracefully at his work and responded to crisis as a veteran. He allowed the opposition only 2.88 runs per nine innings, worked 12 complete games and won 11 and lost eight.

To some extent it was breeding that led to this accomplishment. His father, Chet Sr., was a National League pitcher for some six seasons at Pittsburgh, New York and Philadelphia. He did not become renowned, for he spent most of those days with the Phillies, who then were specializing in the tired, run-down kind of team that hit viciously but seldom, won only often enough to keep the rent paid on delapidated old Baker Bowl.

These were the teams of Chuck Klein, Pinky Whitney, Don Hurst, Jumbo Elliott and the lot. You remember them. The senior Nichols was employed mostly in relief and won just one major league game in his career. But he gave careful attention to the little left-handed boy that grew up at his house, and the consequence was that the boy was a polished performer when Jeff Jones signed him for the Braves.

"There were several clubs trying to sign me in high school," Chet said, "until we got into a playoff series. I lost two out of three games in five days and they began to lose interest in me fast."

"I went off to pitch in a semipro league that summer and was winning big. They all got interested in me again. But all the time the Braves had never quit on me. That's the reason I signed with them."

—The Pain Transferred With Him

The reason Nichols is a Cracker today is generally a mystery to all. First, though, a bit of background.

After the break-in season—it was the first time a rookie led a major league in ERA since Jim Turner did it for the Braves in '37, and Jim was an advanced trouper of 31—Nichols attracted the military, and went off for his tour of service. The adjustment was slow when he came back, 9-11 and 9-8 seasons, and he found it difficult going the distance.

This year he began to have pains in his shoulder after he pitched. He was getting nobody out, and Milwaukee transferred him to Wichita. The pain transferred with him.

"The day after I'd pitch, this pain in my shoulder was so bad I couldn't throw," he said Saturday evening. It was just before gametime, and there would be no practice for the field was a quagmire. "It feels great tonight. I'm going to try it out in a few minutes and see. I just got tired last night, and the reason I did, I wasn't getting my curve over, so I had to throw my fast ball more and that wears you out."

Nichols got Jack Rice and Gail Henley before Emil Panko homered in the sixth. Then Al Grunwald hit the rain-maker that rode a mile high and bounced into the left-field stands and caused the second of two furious field debates. That's when King summoned Charlie Bicknell to save Nichols and the 2-1 margin, and he did.

Nichols began throwing cautiously Saturday evening. Soon the sweat was marking his shirt, and in about five minutes he said that was enough.

"How does it feel?" King asked.

"Great," Nichols said. "Feels fine."

He was grinning childishly. He'd grinned that way only on the day when in Mobile when King told him he'd finally get his start down there. The crisis had been met.

CRACKERS PUT THORPE ON THE DISABLED LIST

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5.—The Crackers officially put outfielder Bob Thorpe on the disabled list Sunday to make room for pitcher Don McMahon. That means Thorpe will take an enforced layoff for 10 days. . . . The first game was played in enervating humidity that had the pitchers falling out like flies. . . . Gail Henley broke his sun glasses crashing against the fence chasing Billy Reynolds' double in the first. . . . Pete Naton, the Pelican catcher, almost went into the stands after a heckling fan.

Art Kowalski, the Baton Rouge general manager, was visiting and predicting glory for Jim Umbricht, the former University of Georgia pitcher who has won 14 games for his Evangeline League club. He's Cracker-owned. . . . Mossor's home run, a liner over the short right-field corner, was the third by a Cracker pitcher for the season. Valentine and Bicknell own the others. . . . The 13-run total in the first game was the Crackers' high-scoring mark for the summer. —BISHER

Harrison and Suggs Capture Tam Titles

Old Arkansas Traveler's 278 Edges Stewart by Two

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (INS)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the Arkansas Traveler, took a red-hot putter out of his bag of clubs today and blazed a final round 67 to win the $25,000 All-American golf tournament at Tam O'Shanter.

Harrison, who has been a golf pro, took third place with a 281 total.

In the women's ranks, steady Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., won her second All-American with a 72-hole mark of 301. She had a final round score of 73 — three under women's par.

Miss Suggs beat out Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., by two strokes.

Stewart, who closed out his final round with a 71, earned $2,360 and Furgol pocketed $2,000 with a 71 finish.

Jim Ferrier of Hollywood, Calif., earned fourth place with a final round 69 for a 282 mark. His purse was $1,700.

Jack Burke Jr., of Klamath Lake, N. Y., ended up in a tie with Canada's Stan Leonard in the 284 bracket.

The slow-talking Harrison had not won a tournament since the 1954 Australian open. Harrison credited George Lowe, a well-known golf instructor, for his finish. Lowe gave Dutch a putter and a two hour putting lesson.

Elmer Reed, Atlanta Open champion, posted a 73-75-73-73 284.

In the amateur division, Jim Hiskey, 19-year-old University of Houston junior, got a final round 74 for a 295 total to win by seven strokes.

Wanda Sanches of Baton Rouge, La., took the women's amateur title with a 315 total. She finished two strokes better than Ruth Jensen of Seattle.

Atlanta, New Orleans Split Benighted Bill

Crackers Win Lid-Lifter, 13-8, Then Lose, 14-2; Grabowski Goes Against Bears at Poncey Tonight

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5.—It may set baseball back to the days of President McKinley, but Atlanta and New Orleans exchanged horrid insults at Pelican Stadium Sunday afternoon and evening, and when the smoke had cleared the Crackers had dropped a full game back of Birmingham but moved into second place over the prostrate forms of the Memphis Chicks.

The Crackers knocked out the Pelicans in the first game, 13-8, and went down for the count in the second, 14-2.

From start to finish, the Crackers had to overcome their own pitching corps as well as the Pelicans. There probably has been no worse mound performance in the name of the Atlanta ball club in many a season. Eight pitchers walked 22 Pelicans in two games, gave up 24 hits and 22 runs.

Only the bombardment of the Cracker long strokers saved the first game. Bob Montag struck a two-run homer, Earl Mossor contributed a solo blast and Bob Boring hit one with two on. It was Boring's clout in the eighth inning that actually firmed up the opening decision.

Thus the Crackers round out a sterling road trip with six victories and three defeats, and come home to face Mobile Monday evening at Ponce de Leon Park. Dick Grabowski (8-9), one of three pitchers who weren't Chet Nichols and Corky Valentine were the others—gets the home pitching call.

The Pelicans just missed a league record in the fifth inning of the second game. They rapped Lenny Yochim, Fred Vogel and Mossor for 10 straight hits and scored nine runs. The league record for consecutive hits is 11, set by Chattanooga in 1953.

Every Pelican got at least one hit in the big inning and Dick Barone and Emil Panko got two. Included were doubles by Panko and Gail Henley and triples by John Powers and Dave Jacobs.

Each Pelican scored one run. It was by far the worst Cracker defeat of the season. By the same token, their 13-run total in the first game was their best offensive result.

Charlie Bicknell came on in the seventh inning of the first game and got credit for his eighth victory of the season. Don McMahon, fresh in from Wichita, started the second and was charged with the loss. He retired while pitching to Henley in the fourth inning with a blister on his hand.

Pendergrast, Gaston Score Nat'l Sweep

Home-Built and Home-Based
Y-Flyers Wind Up One-Two

By BILL ALLEN
Constitution Sports Writer

LAKE ALLATOONA, Aug. 5 — Britt Pendergrast played it cool and cautious here Sunday to win the National Y-Flyer sailing championship and Bobby Gaston parlayed some daring and a soaked physiognomy into a runner-up spot and the President's cup.

For both Atlantans it was the capture of a fleeting dream and a prediction of theirs come true, for they built Pendergrast's "Albatross" and Gaston's "Grundo" together, seeking perfection. It took them two years to fashion the sleek 18-footers out of a pile of lumber—no kit—and when they were finished they announced to more seasoned skipper around that one boat would win and the other would be second in this big event—some day.

They could never, until Sunday, agree which "Y" it would be. Furthermore, for the first time in living memory, the first places in the five-race regatta were monopolized by two men. Britt won going away three times and Gaston twice.

While the national championship is decided on basis of point totals in five races, the President's Cup is given to the skipper who holds the highest total in the last three races of the series. It is designed to keep "hard-luck" craft in the regatta for the full time. Gaston's 433 points were not enough to challenge Pendergrast's 458 for the title, but his 274 edged the champ in the last three heats.

Third in the president's cup event was Ned Thornhill, Charleston; fourth Bob Watson of Shreveport, La., and Cleveland's Frank Nash was fifth.

Gaston's first place Sunday was directly traceable to good sailing in light air, and a lucky hunch he had.

His crew, Dee Allcorn, subbing at the lines for his ailing wife, Julia, splashed some water on Gaston while they were momentarily becalmed. He "found" some very light moving air puffing at his wet cheek and shifted his mainsail boom to walk away from his nonplussed followers with full sheets.

Pendergrast, however, had it made before Sunday's race so far as winning the national cup was concerned. He had only to place 31st among 35 boats to win it all. He placed 10th, keeping far away from the bunch at the start so as not to bump, or be bumped. He took his buoy wide, also, but never stopped challenging the front runners. His able crew was daughter Jill.

Placing third—his highest spot in the nationals so far—was beloved E. O. (Smitty) Smithfield, Atlanta, who had the national Junior Y-champ, Will Sanders as crew. Former AYC commodore Frank Brady, now of Centerport, N.Y., brought his Lucky 13 in ahead of Bill Berry, Atlanta, a former national champ in this class.

Last year's national champion,

David Blackshear placed sixth, and John Carver, who has graced the last half of the Y-Flyer fleet standings most of his sailing career, catapulted into seventh place in the final standings. Both are Atlantans.

Charleston's Ned Thornhill placed eighth, Bob Watson of Shreveport, La., placed ninth and national YFRA president Don Dutton of Atlanta placed 10th.

Farr, Robertson Mound Magic Wins for Simmons, Ballentine

Reagin Homer Nips Riverdale

Gene Farr, a fuzzy-faced youngster just out of North Fulton High School, did a man's work Sunday at Ponce de Leon Park as he bested veteran Jimmy Cook in a hurling duel that spun Simmons Service past seeded Riverdale, 3-2, in the 1956 Atlanta Amateur Baseball tournament and into a Tuesday night engagement with defending champion Jackson Loan.

Ballentine Motors leaned on Harvey Robertson, 210-pound veteran right-hander, to upset seeded Armored Express, 13-2, in the Poncey opener as the field was cut to eight teams.

The 17-year-old Farr let hard-hitting Riverdale down with five hits, walked five, hit one, fanned four and pitched masterful ball in the clutch. He snuffed out the final two batters with the tying and winning hits, struck out six and walked five, on a two-run smash over the left-center-field fence by battermate Ed Reagin in the third inning after Wendell Tarleton had dumped a fluke double into right. Reagin, Simmons' big hit for all season, scored the other run in the second. He walked, was sacrificed to second by Ralph Turner, stole third and came home when the catcher threw the ball away.

A walk to Duck Jordan, Cook's second single, an error by center-fielder Jimmy Nisewonger on a fly by Tommy Scott—who also had two hits—and Joe Huie's sacrifice fly accounted for Riverdale's two runs in the seventh.

Big Robertson, who with two-inning collaboration by reliever Benny Carlton notched a seventh hit, held Armored at bay except for pilot Paul Mauldin's homer into the signs in sixth. Robertson walked three and past two days) suffered a foot injury against the Yankees but is expected to return to the lineup Monday against Cleveland. . . . Irv Noren, resting in Arcadia, Calif., with an injured left knee, hopes to join the New York Yankees by Sept. 1. . . . Umpire Art Gore was "removed" from the Brooklyn-St. Louis doubleheader when a foul tip off Junior Gilliam's bat injured his right foot.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Richardson and Giammalva Give U.S. Cup Win; Barnett Defeated

Compiled From Wire Reports
Rhodes scholar Ham Richardson taught Mexico's Mario Llamas the finer points of tennis Sunday and Texaco Sammy Giammalva followed through against Estaban Reyes to give the United States a 4-1 decision over Mexico in the American Zone Davis Cup championship at Rye, N.Y.

Richardson displayed near-flawless form breezing past the grandest player south of the Rio Grande, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, and Giammalva disturbed 19-year-old Reyes, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

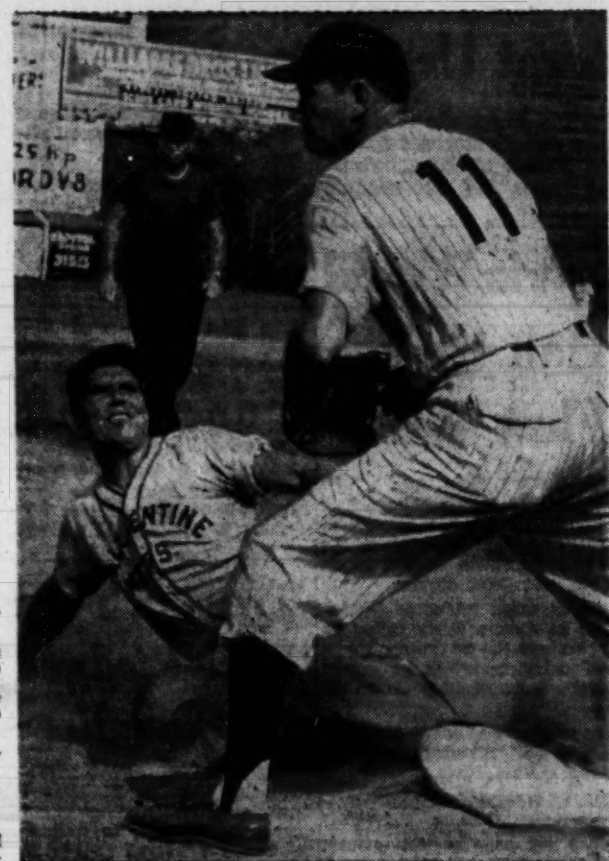

Next stop for the Americans is Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 28-30 against Italy's European Zone titlists. The zone finals and challenge are scheduled in Australia in December.

MORE TENNIS — Atlanta's Kathy Barnett extended Memphis' Marg Kuznetz three sets before bowing, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, in the women's finals of the Mississippi Valley Tennis Tournament. . . . Mike Neely, another Atlanta tennis junior, teamed with Ben Caton, Pensacola, Fla., to drop a final boys doubles match to Charles McKinley of St. Louis and Hinsdale, Ill.'s Macky Riesen, 6-1, 6-2, in the National Boys' Tournament at Kalamazoo, Mich. . . . Pascho Gonzales bumped Frank Sedgman, 9-7, 3-6, 6-3, to pick up first prize in the first annual $7,500 Masters Round Robin Pro tourney at Los Angeles.

Garnett Moreland's Ballentines, who last week halted an Armored winning streak at nine straight, were given big hitting jobs by Jim Hargrove, who had three singles; ex-Ga. Williams, Jensen Swat Indians, 2-1

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox edged the Cleveland Indians 2-1 Sunday on home runs by Jack Jensen and Ted Williams in a game cut short by a torrential rainstorm. The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was postponed.

The third victory in a row for the Sox over the Indians cut second-place Cleveland's lead to 1½ games over Boston.

Dave Sisler, 24-year-old Boston right-hander, limited the Indians to four hits in seven innings to pick up his fifth victory in 10 decisions. The Indians knicked him for the run in the opening frame when lead-off man Bobby Avila was walked and Al Smith tripled to left.

Boston tied the score in the fifth on Jensen's 14th homer of the season. Williams found the range off starter-loser Bob Lemon in the sixth for his 12th homer of the season.

JOY ON THE COURT

Darrah Seals Southern Pivot Spot As Star Cagers Cheer Coaches

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Just because Perry's Eric Staples and Elberton's George McMillan go around with cat-at-the-canary expressions is no sign that both the South and North will win next Wednesday night's All-Star high school basketball game.

One or the other is going to lose at the O'Keefe gym, but the satisfied customer smiles of McMillan and Staples mean that each feels he has the cream of the hardwood crop in his half of Georgia.

"I don't know how good the North is," admits Staples, veteran of 23 years at Perry and perhaps the most-respected agent among hardwood professors in the state. "But I do know that, as high school squads go, this South outfit of mine is a very accomplished one. If the North wins it will be because those Yankees have some really fine boys."

The new 12-foot lane, to be observed by Georgia high schools for the first time, has resulted in Staples' decision to use Tommy Darrah, the 6-1 Baker hot-shot, at center in his starting lineup instead of Dale Fillingame, 6-9 moonflicker from Bradwell Institute in Hinesville.

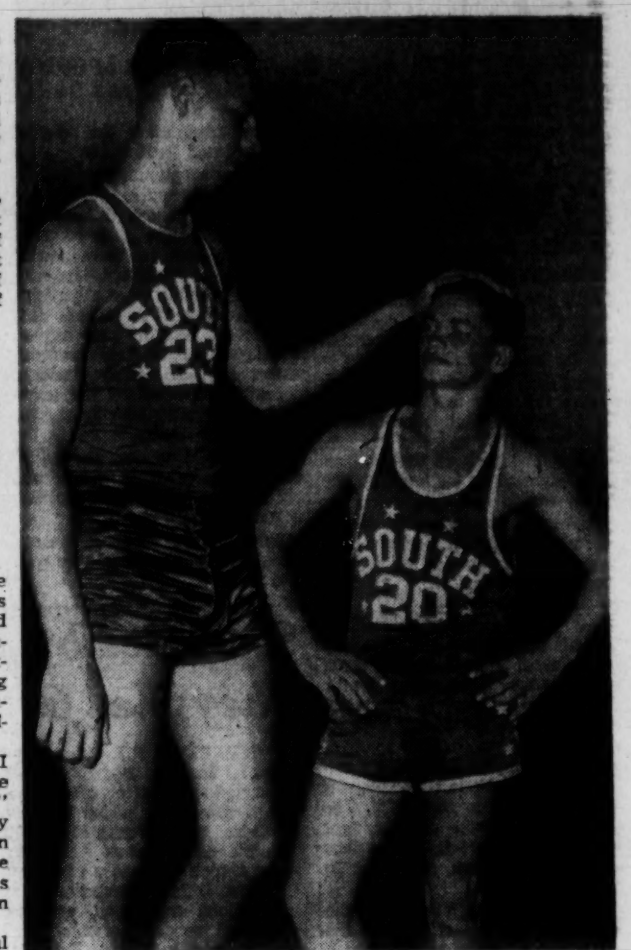

"With the new wide lanes, I believe the best way to play the single pivot is at the foul line," reasons Staples. "We'll probably use big Fillingame at forward on offense, but he'll have to take care of their big boy (James Bettis, 6-5 Elberton center) on defense a lot."

"This Darrah has wonderful instincts and can do a lot of things well. We'll go with Donald Bowen, Wallace Childs' good boy at Blackshear, at one forward, and Jordan's Herb Slayden at the other if his infected knee heals." If not, it will be Ray Groover, the great shot from Quitman.

Homer Shellnut, the blond ball-handling whiz who sparked Jordan to an almost photo-finish with Baker in the state AA finals, and Sam Nunn, agile sharpshooter who helped put Perry in the state B throne room, will start at guard.

Percy Hardy, a mere 5-5 but a crowd-pleasing peewee since his freshman days at Perry when he was only five-feet tall, is the squad's best ball handler.

Pivot man Bettis, who led Elberton to the A title, and Billy Pelfrey, Valley Point's accomplished eagle-eye, have been

Vanguard of Steelworkers Heads Back to the Mills

Bulk of 650,000 Strikers Slated To Be Recalled by Week's End

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 5 (AP)—The vanguard of 650,000 steelworkers packed their lunch pails today and headed back to the mills.

The workers face the mammoth job of getting month-long idled furnaces back into operation and trying to make up an estimated loss of 10 million tons of steel production. Wage losses will exceed 255 million dollars.

MIDNIGHT SHIFTS

Best guesses were that a little more than 20 per cent of the country's steelworkers would be on call for midnight shifts.

Employers recall will quicken during the week as iron-making blast furnaces and steel-making open hearths are speeded into production. The bulk of the workers were expected to be back on the job by week's end.

Estimates for returning to the pre-strike production rate of above 50 per cent of capacity range from 10 days to three weeks, depending on the company.

The nation's industries—reliant on steel output—will feel strike effects for a long time. Reserve steel inventories were hard hit by the dispute—longest in the steel industry since the 54-day walkout of 1952.

Layoffs of more than 100,000 employees in steel-related industries were attributed to the strike. The first of these will probably get back when steel-owned coal mines resume. Many are scheduled to reopen tomorrow.

Still to come is a boost in the price of steel. Top officials of the industry have indicated strongly it will be a substantial hike. That news is expected to come this week.

Many manufacturers may have to tack the additional cost of steel on to their own product prices. That would mean passing it on to average families who buy an auto, a washer or any one of thousands of other items.

The last company to sign the union contract was Armco Steel Corp. Three other firms signed the pact earlier today. They are Allegheny Ludlum Corp., Inland Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

The big break on the strike's economic grip came Friday night when U. S. Steel, the world's No. 1 producer, and Republic, the No. 2 producer, inked contracts with the union and began immediately to get mills operating.

Saturday the nation's No. 2 producer, Bethlehem and the No. 4 producer, Jones & Laughlin, signed up. Sandwiched in between was a host of comparatively

Separated by Jealous Lies, They Wed 60 Years Later

TIVERTON, R.I., Aug. 5 (AP)—Benjamin French, 82, and the girl he knew as Mabel Smith back in the 1890s, were finally married today after a hoax had kept them apart more than 60 years, during which time each had married.

Mrs. Mabel Smith Kibbe, 79, became French's bride at a simple ceremony at Amicable Congregational Church here.

"A nice girl and a nice day," French said.

Mrs. Philip Macomber, who brought them together after their long separation, was the bride's only attendant. Her husband was best man.

The couple left for New Hampshire, where they will tour extensively, visiting relatives and friends.

The newlyweds were sweethearts back in 1894, when her family moved out of town. French said a series of lies by a jealous woman caused them to stop corresponding, and that the woman capped her work by sending a clipping to the girl, reporting the death of a "B. France," and giving her the impression that French was dead. She believed this until this year.

Fires Set in 7 Churches In N. Y., Elderly Man Held

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—Small fires were deliberately set in seven churches this weekend, including famed St. Patrick's Cathedral and two Big Episcopal churches, St. Thomas and St. Bartholomew's.

In no case did the fires do serious damage, but fire officials alerted all city churches to check carefully before locking up for the night.

In most cases the churches were not being used at the time the fires were discovered. Police said most of the fires were started with wads of paper drenched in lighter fluid.

Tonight a 66-year-old man was picked up for questioning, and police said he had matches and an unlabeled bottle of lighter fluid in his pockets.

The rash of fires covered a considerable area of midtown Manhattan, and the six fires today were reported to the fire department over a period of about six hours, starting at noon.

In the order reported, today's blazes occurred at the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation, 35th St. and Madison Ave.; St. Pat-

Soviet Envoy Swap Held All Japan to Get

MOSCOW, Aug. 5 (INS)—Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu conferred with his closest advisers today to complete a length statement on Japan's claims to Pacific Islands held by Russia since the end of World War II.

Western observers, noting the emphatic statements in Soviet press organs against return of the island, expressed belief that Japan is left with hardly any alternative but to accept an exchange of ambassadors with Moscow without settlement of territorial issues.

THINK IT'S THE PROMISED LAND Hobo Hen on Truck Hops Down in Texas

TEXARKANA, Tex., Aug. 5 (AP)—A hobo hen named Josephine hopped down off her truck axle today and decided to stay.

Her unusual 965-mile trip started Saturday in Chattanooga, Tenn. She felt she had reached the promised land at a truck stop cafe 25 miles west of this Arkansas-Texas border city.

Sam Morrow of Conover, N.C., owner and driver of the 15-ton truck, tried to talk her out of it. He told her California is prettier country. She wouldn't listen.

"She wouldn't get back up on that axle of her own accord and we couldn't catch her," said Morrow.

At truck stops along the way, Josephine would hop down and gobble the bread crumbs Morrow and his two relief drivers would spread for her. Then she'd hop back up again.

Now Josephine is on her own and a long way from home. And there's one thing for sure. It's a good thing she got away from that poultry plant.

Point, Ga., struck the back of Cottler's car, knocking it into a deep fill near Pepperell and killing Cottler.

No one in either of the two racing cars was seriously injured, Payne said. Liles, formerly of Auburn, was held in the Lee County jail in Opelika on a manslaughter charge.

Debate Issues, Not Health Of Ike, Democrat Urges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) today called on both Republicans and Democrats to halt the "degrading" discussion of President Eisenhower's health and turn to the "real issues" of the election campaign.

Mansfield, an assistant chairman of the Democratic National Committee, proposed "a moratorium from the daily diagnoses, the too-candid commentaries and the degrading spectacle of our chief executive being shown in the light of a guinea pig."

"The President's health is not the issue in this campaign," he said in a statement. "The issues affecting the welfare and the security of the United States are. Let us get down to the real business of our country."

Mansfield said there has been too much talk about Mr. Eisenhower's health "by some Democrats but by more Republicans."

"No man has been more diagnosed, medically commented on, or treated by so many doctors—literally and figuratively—than Mr. Eisenhower," he said. "He is not a medical guinea pig."

"While he of course holds the highest office in our country and perhaps the most important position in the entire world, he is at the same time a human being with the weaknesses and strengths all of us in some degree possess."

"The unnatural attitude of too many people regarding the President's health is not only in many instances morbid, but it smacks more of the curious than it does of real concern," Mansfield said.

"Let the President attend to his duties to the best of his ability; let the doctors treat him as a special patient; and let the rest of us pray and hope for his recovery."

"Let the American people decide in November what their diagnosis will be in the form of their verdict, but let us all in the meantime hold our peace and discuss the issues which divide us as well as those which unite us."

Syria Would Halt Oil's Flow West

DAMASCUS, Syria, Aug. 5 (UP)—Syrian oil workers threatened today to halt the flow of western oil across their country if the West takes action against Egypt in the Suez Canal dispute.

An oil union leader at Dier-el-Jour in eastern Syria called on oil workers to be ready for a "national struggle" in support of Egypt's nationalization of the canal.

He warned that action would be taken if the "imperialist powers" moved against Egypt.

ECHOES HAMMACH

The warning echoed one made earlier this week by labor unions at Hammah. The unions threatened to destroy western oil installations in Syria in the event western countries use force in the canal dispute.

Millions of tons of oil necessary to keep western Europe's economy in high gear run across Syria through the British-controlled Iraq Petroleum Co. pipelines.

The lines, which pass near Hammah and Dier-el-Zour, carry an estimated 25 million tons of oil a year from Iraqi oilfields to Lebanese ports on the Mediterranean Sea.

BRITAIN SENDS PARATROOPS

The threats against the West came as Britain and France mobilized more forces as a precaution against trouble over the Suez Canal. Britain dispatched its first brigade of paratroop reinforcements to the Middle East today.

Syria announced that its delegation to the Arab League political committee meeting this week will back Egypt's seizure of the canal. The delegation will fly to Egypt Tuesday to confer with officials of the other nations in the league—Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Libya.

Akram Hourani, leader of the Baath Socialist party, urged the delegation to press for these decisions:

1. Announce that the West will find itself in an Arab holy war should it commit itself to aggression against Egypt.

2. In the event of western aggression, the Arab states should nationalize Middle Eastern oil and prevent it from reaching the West.

New Aluminum Talks Set With U.S. Mediator Today

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 5 (AP)—Efforts to end the five-day-old strike of the United Steelworkers against the Aluminum Co. of America will begin anew tomorrow in New York City with federal mediators sitting in.

The old contract is being extended on a day-to-day basis. Aluminum workers were earning an hourly average wage of $2.22. Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service, said yesterday in Washington that negotiators for both sides have agreed to meet with him in the service's New York regional office at 2 p.m.

Finnegan planned to meet with company representatives in a separate morning session. It will be the first meeting of the company and union since 18,000 workers walked off the job Wednesday at 12 Alcoa plants.

10,000 CALLED OUT

The union called another 10,000 of its members out on strike at nine plants of Reynolds Aluminum Co. at the same time. A settlement with Alcoa probably would set the pattern for agreement with Reynolds.

Both Alcoa and Reynolds offered the union a three-year, no-strike contract which the companies said would give workers an hourly package increase of 46 cents during the life of the pact. The union rejected the offers.

Union President David J. McDonald has never put a figure on his demands on the aluminum firms. Among other things the union wants a substantial wage increase and a 52-week lay-off plan.

ALCOA SIGNS

Last week, Alcoa signed a three-year contract with Aluminum Workers International Union, subject to ratification by a majority of the union's locals. Balloting must be concluded by next Thursday.

The first of the nine Alcoa plants employing 15,000 AWIU members approved the pact last night. A union spokesman said workers at the Lancaster, Pa., plant voted 99 per cent for acceptance.

AWIU now is negotiating a new contract with Reynolds in Richmond. The union represents 6,500 workers in nine Reynolds plants.

Truman Type Race Pledged By Chandler

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (INS)—Kentucky Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler promised today to conduct a Truman-type campaign if the Democrats nominate him for president, and said that is the only way his party can win.

The Kentuckian also claimed his chances of winning the nomination have "very greatly improved" since Sen. Kefauver (D) Tenn., bowed out of the race.

Chandler, appearing on the NBC-TV show, "Youth Wants to Know," contended that he already has picked up many Kefauver delegates.

The Kentucky leader said a campaign such as former President Truman successfully conducted in 1948 against then-New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is exactly what the Democrats need. Chandler vowed he would "get on the back of a train and talk with people" all across the nation.

Emory Has Old South Enshrined on Paper

By MARJORY SMITH

LOCAL LOVERS OF CONFEDERATE LORE may not be aware that their own Emory University's collection of Confederate imprints ranks third in the nation.

Dianne Brantley

Emory stepped above Duke University, the Massachusetts Historical Society, the University of Virginia and others—topped only by the Library of Congress and the Boston Athenaeum—in 1938. In that year Emory acquired the notable Confederate collection of the late Keith M. Read of Savannah.

That collection included manuscripts, books and pamphlets, magazines and newspapers, broadsides, sheet music and maps. With this and subsequent acquisitions, Emory has a grand total of 1,631 Southern Confederacy items, not including newspapers and periodicals.

She promptly wrote a letter to the Avondale Estates postmaster to commend the quick-thinking letter-carrier.

Fannin Democratic Faction Pledges To Guard Ballots

Constitution State News Service

BLUE RIDGE, Aug. 5.—New rumblings of revolt against Fannin County Democratic Committee leaders and state Chairman John Sammons Bell have been sounded.

Saturday night a mass meeting of dissatisfied Fannin Democrats expressed defiance of Bell's July 17 ruling which refused to recognize their slate as the official Democratic Executive Committee for the county.

The group, headed by Adelbert Richards and Charles German, proclaims it represents the rank and file of the county's Democrats.

Saturday night a score of men pledged "to guard" the ballot boxes in the upcoming county elections September 12.

CHARGE COMMITTEE ILLEGAL—The unrecognized group has charged several times during the past 18 months that the present committee, headed by Stanley Daves, is illegal because there was no consolidation of votes cast in Fannin's 13 precincts in 1954.

The case alleging "missing ballot boxes" went to court in 1955 and the Democratic defendants, charged with violating election laws, were acquitted of all charges.

It has been reported that the present group of Democrats seeking control of the county's Democratic machinery are Republican-backed.

DENY GOP BACKING

Richards and German, however, have denied the charges. They told The Constitution Sunday that they defy any man to prove the charges.

Saturday night's meeting was called the "largest political gathering of any party in the county's history." Leaders said more than 1,000 persons attended.

M. R. Dodd Seeks Fulton Sheriff Post

M. R. (Randy) Dodd, who has served 25 years with the Atlanta Police Department, is seeking nomination in the Sept. 12 primary as Fulton County sheriff.

Dodd, 49, ran second in the sheriff's race four years ago against A. B. (Bud) Foster, now deceased. He is one of four candidates in the present race.

"I believe I am well qualified for this important work," Dodd said. "Members of my family have served over 160 years with the Atlanta Police Department. In my 25 years of service I have worked in every department of law enforcement."

Dodd said he resigned his position with the police department to run for sheriff in the belief that he could use his experience to serve the public. He pledged to "seek closer harmony between city, county and state law enforcement."

A life-long resident of Fulton County, Dodd was educated in the Atlanta public schools, the Locust Grove Institute and attended Oglethorpe University.

He is on the director's staff of the Yaarab Temple, is a member of Knights Templar, Royal Arch Masons, Khorassan Grotto, Elks, Moose and Woodmen of the World. He also belongs to Civitan International, Atlanta YMCA board of directors, Atlanta area Boy Scouts and other organizations.

Married to the former Nell Josephine Polson, Dodd and his wife have three sons. They reside at 1610 Avon Ave., SW, and are active Baptist lay workers.

Firms Told Expressway Will Advance Business

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

Engineers have assured members of the Negro business community that construction of the southeast leg of the Expressway will not adversely affect their firms.

G. F. Steele, liaison engineer for the construction of the highway, commenting on the destruction of buildings on Auburn avenue, said: "In my opinion the effect upon the Negro businessman will be bigger and better businesses in this locality."

Steele added that in the wake of the highway the established residential neighborhood will be eliminated and the area gradually will become more of an industrial center.

Another business development that may result from the Expressway will take place from Baker street to Edgewood avenue, where the southwest leg of the highway will be built.

Feels Even Better than He Looks!

Ever notice how a man looks when he takes the wheel of his new Cadillac and heads for his favorite highway?

Take a good look the next time you have a chance—and we think you'll see a happy man!

There's just no mistaking the pride and satisfaction that show in his face... or the happiness and contentment that reside in his heart.

And, as any experienced Cadillac owner can testify, he feels every bit as wonderful as he looks! For a journey in the "car of cars" is both a marvelous tonic for the spirit... and a wonderful opportunity for physical rest and relaxation.

It starts, in fact, the instant he slips into the driver's seat and rests his hands on the wheel. Those deep, soft cushions hold him in perfect comfort... and he is literally surrounded by beauty and luxury.

Even before he sets the car in motion, some of life's care and worry seem to go out of his day.

And then comes the miracle of Cadillac performance. It's an inspiration just to sit at the wheel... to look out over that graceful hood... and to watch the miles flow gracefully by.

And how easy it all is. Just a gesture of his hand on the steering wheel and the car follows effortlessly and obediently. Just a touch of his toe to the accelerator and the car answers instantly to the command. Just a nudge of his foot on the braking pedal and the car comes to a smooth, safe, silken stop.

Sound wonderful? Well, we sincerely urge you to come in at your first convenience—spend an hour at the wheel—and see for yourself.

We'll be happy to give you the keys... and the car... and some wonderful news about the cost and delivery advantages that you will enjoy if you make your decision for Cadillac today.

Why not stop in and see us soon?

For Pushing Bond Sales

By BOB WILLIMON

Two civilian employees at the Atlanta General Depot have been cited by depot commander Brig. Gen. J. R. Ranck for "outstanding" promotion of U.S. Savings Bond sales.

Charles Z. Colson, 787 Amsterdam Ave., NE, received a "special recognition award" for his part in promoting bond sales among finance and accounting employees. He was one of the first "Minute-men" to reach a payroll deduction savings plan sales goal of 70 per cent of a section's employees.

Edward J. Price, 448 Parkway Dr., NE, won a like award for achieving the same goal among engineer supply workers.

The Atlanta General Depot has reached a "near 50 per cent mark" in its drive to enlist its personnel in the bond purchase plan, officials reported.

Members of the section, which received individual superior performance citations signed by regional IRS director E. C. Palmer, are: Mrs. Josephine S. Corbett, supervisor; Mrs. Sylvia Dayton, Miss Hattie Garvin, Mrs. Garnett Thoms, Mrs. Marion Transou, Mrs. Odelle Minton and Mrs. Myrtle Powell.

Louis Howell, assistant regional commissioner and ATTU director, made the presentations. He said the section, which handles assessments involving violations, achieved twice the national "per person" production average over a 19-month period.

Keep bringing those old books and magazines to Room 156.

The Junior Staff Organization of the regional offices of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is still shooting for its goal of 2,000 pieces of reading matter to send to patients at the Georgia State Hospital at Milledgeville.

For those who've already complied, the word from Mrs. Irene S. Dunne and Miss Myrtle Stephens of the Public Health Service is a "hearty thanks."

"Several hundred" pieces have been sent to the hospital, Mrs. Dunne reported. U.S. Forest Service employees contributed a complete fiction library; two persons called to donate several-year accumulations of "choice" magazines.

IRS Speaker

Ellison C. Palmer, regional director of the Internal Revenue Service, was speaker July 31 at closing exercises for graduates of a special summer school for IRS executives at Oxford, Ohio.

Some 19 officials of the Atlanta regional IRS office are attending various sessions at the Miami University school—one of three in the nation designed to keep IRS administration on a par with the best of private industry.

Georgians taking courses there this summer included D. J. DeLoe, W. R. Jennings, W. E. Matthews, Robert B. Miller, Earle B. Welsh, Paul D. Younce, T. L. Strange, J. M. Whitford, W. J. Wolff, James B. Young, M. P. Dorsch, A. T. Hollinrake, H. F. Sheppard, T. W. Ulrich, J. C. Van Voorhis, Frank A. Winter, E. Y. Poole and Jack J. Reynolds.

Presented Gift

Hugh S. Ahern, commercial specialist of the U.S. Department of Commerce Atlanta field office, received a gift from the membership of the Atlanta Chapter, American Marketing Assn., upon his recent retirement as president of the organization.

Average Salary of $435 a Month
Seen for 1957 Graduates of Tech

The average starting salary of a 1957 Georgia Tech graduate probably will be $435 a month, a Tech placement official said Sunday.

Dean Fred W. Ajax said the estimated figure is $10 higher than the 1956 average for new graduate engineers.

Ajax said industrial concerns already are contacting prospective graduates. Beginning in January, representatives of 700 concerns will start interviewing seniors.

Enrollment also is rising at Tech. A freshman class of 1,200 is expected in the fall. This will raise the over-all Tech enrollment to 5,400 fulltime students, officials said.

Close Contests Shaping Up in 4 E. Point Races
For Council; First Woman Candidate Seeks Post

By OSCAR JOHNSON

Close contests for city council posts are shaping up in each of East Point's four wards.

Four seats are at stake in the Democratic primary to be held Sept. 12. Two are being sought by incumbents. One of the other contests is being fought between East Point's first woman candidate and an ex-councilman.

So far two candidates have announced for each post. Deadline for declaring is Aug. 11. Here's how the four battles shaped up as of Monday:

FIRST WARD—Former East Point postmaster A. W. Etheridge is opposing C. Roy Gunter, a partner in the operation of an Atlanta furniture and appliance firm.

Etheridge, a resident of East Point for 30 years, retired as city postmaster in 1952 after 18 years' duty. He said he will be able to give full-time attention to city duties if necessary.

CAREFUL STUDY
"If elected," he said, "I will, after careful and thorough consideration of every problem and proposed legislation, do what I sincerely believe is best for the people of East Point."

Etheridge lives with his wife at 316 Neely Ave. He is a member of East Point First Methodist Church and of East Point Masonic Lodge No. 288.

Gunter, an East Point resident for 10 years, has served on the city personnel board. He said he is primarily concerned with traffic and parking problems in the city and will "work for improvement of all streets."

WANTS BETTER PARKS
He is "opposed to any unnecessary tax increases to operate the city," and plans to work toward

4 Die on Georgia Roads; Woman Killed by Train

Intersection Collision Claims Life of West Virginia Man

Five persons were killed in weekend Georgia traffic. Four died in highway smashups and a woman was hit by a train.

John M. Jones, 37, of Reedsville, W. Va., died in a Statesboro hospital Sunday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Saturday night. Police said the car he was driving swung into U.S. 301 from a side road and collided with another auto.

Police said Carterwrighter Ar-rity, a Savannah Negro woman, died when a freight train struck her at a Savannah railroad crossing Saturday night.

The State Patrol reported James Oliver Monk, 20, of Quitman, was killed Saturday when the car he was driving went out of control on a curve and overturned about eight miles north of Quitman on Georgia 33.

Ennis Clay, 21, of Rte. 7, Dublin, was injured fatally Saturday when he was pinned under an overturned machine about 30 miles south of Dublin on a Laurens County road.

Train Slams Car, Hurts 8 In Savannah

SAVANNAH, Aug. 5 (AP)—Eight persons driving from Charleston, S.C., to Key West, Fla., were injured tonight when their car was struck by an Atlantic Coast Line train at a Savannah crossing.

Police said the most seriously injured are Oscar Wynn, his son, Robert, 6, and his daughter, Linda, 4. Full extent of their injuries was not determined.

Suffering minor injuries were Mrs. Oscar Wynn, her father, Henry Miller, 68, two other Wynn children, Joseph, 12, and Edward, 21 months, and a friend, David Fracas, 12.

The Wynn family was moving permanently from Charleston to Key West, police said. The Fracas boy said he is a resident of Key West.

A Million Pennies for Hospital In Paulding Would Join $116,000

DALLAS, Aug. 5 (AP)—A drive to collect a million pennies to help finance by $10,000 construction of a 30-bed, $300,000 Hill-Burton Hospital here has been started.

W. M. Huff, chairman of the Paulding County Hospital Authority, said containers have already been placed in business houses throughout the county.

No pennies will be banked, he added, but as contributions grow they will be displayed in the center of town.

To date, approximately $116,000 has been raised by donations and contributions by industries and individuals. Start of construction is planned for October.

Child Pulls Away From Mother, Struck by Car

A four-year-old boy who pulled away from his mother's hand and dashed into the path of an automobile was one of three Atlanta children struck by cars Sunday, police reported.

The boy, Howell Davis, 194 Fenwick St., SE, suffered a bruise on the back of the head when he was hit by a car driven by Earl Roy Algood, 40, of 494 Boulevard, SE. Police said the Davis lad pulled away from his mother who was shepherding him and her three other children across the intersection of Boulevard and Kalb Street, SE, at 1 p.m.

Police said Rickey Lamar Leak, 5-year-old son of Mrs. Betty Leak, 707 Washington Ave., SE, was slightly injured when struck by a car driven by Robert Hill, 46, of 1003 Sparks St., SW, at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Police said the boy darted from behind parked cars on Georgia Avenue, SE, into the path of Hill's vehicle. No charges were filed.

8 Collegians Get Gold Bars At Benning

Eight senior ROTC cadets from Georgia colleges have been commissioned as Army second lieutenants in ceremonies at Fort Benning.

The cadets had finished four years of college ROTC and then completed the 6-week General Military Science Summer Camp at Fort Benning.

Those commissioned who attended Georgia Tech are: Andrew H. DuPre Jr., Pleasant, S.C.; William D. McCurry, Monterey, Calif.; and John C. McFarland, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McFarland Jr., 1422 Emory Rd., NE.

Those commissioned who attended the University of Georgia are: Clark H. Cobb Jr., Columbia, S.C.; Kenneth E. Lowe of Brunswick; Edward D. Tomblin of Columbus; and Marion L. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Brown, 316 Kings Hwy., Decatur.

One cadet attended the Georgia State College of Business Administration. He is Asher I. Benator, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Benator, 420 Seventh St., NE.

Ike Cinch Over Adlai —McCarthy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy said today the presidential election will be "very, very close" if the Democrats nominate Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) or Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The Wisconsin Republican said he thought Mr. Eisenhower would be reelected in November if the Democratic candidate is Adlai E. Stevenson or Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

If Symington or Lausche is nominated "then I think it would be a real, very, very close race," McCarthy said on the filmed television program, "Reporters Roundup."

OFFERS HELP

McCarthy said he would stump for any Republican senators involved in a close race if they ask for his help. He said Mr. Eisenhower "hasn't asked me yet to campaign for him."

He said he would enter the Maryland senatorial campaign in support of Sen. John Marshall Butler (R) against former Sen. Millard Tydings (D) if Butler asks his help. McCarthy helped Butler unseat Tydings six years ago in a stormy campaign.

In other political comments, McCarthy said:

GIVES NIXON NOD

He could see no reason for "dumping" Vice President Richard M. Nixon as a candidate for reelection. He said he could not say what he thought of Harold E. Stassen, leader of the anti-Nixon drive, because "there might be ladies listening."

The Eisenhower administration "unfortunately" may have removed Communists in government as a campaign issue. He said "That crowd . . . around the President — they have been discrediting the idea that there are Communists in government." He named the President's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and former mutual security administrator Paul Hoffman as two of the "crowd." He said the Republicans have also forgotten a 1952 pledge to "shove back the tide of communism."

8 Go on Trial in Brink's Robbery Today Protesting Words of Hoover

BOSTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Eight Greater Boston men go on trial tomorrow in Suffolk County Superior Court charged with participation in the Jan. 17, 1950 Brink's robbery of $1,218,211, the biggest cash haul in history.

Indications are that it will be several weeks before a word of testimony is heard in what is expected to be a lengthy trial.

Two thousand men and women living in Suffolk County have been called as prospective jurors. They will appear in groups of 100 a day until 14 jurors—a regular panel and two alternates—have been chosen.

The defendants contend they cannot have a fair trial, that the Department of Justice and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover made that impossible.

When six of the group were apprehended in January, a statement distributed to news agencies by the FBI read in part:

"The Department of Justice announced that intensive investigation by the FBI for the past six years has resulted in the solution of the million-dollar Brink's robbery in Boston, Mass., on Jan. 17, 1950. Of the 11 members of the gang responsible for the robbery, the FBI this morning arrested six."

The statement added that: "J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, identified the six arrested persons as . . . and named them."

Chief defense counsel Paul T. Smith regards the word "solution" as a key defense argument. He said mentioning the men in the same statement is an insurmountable obstacle to a fair and impartial trial.

Defendants are Anthony Pino, 49; Michael Vincent Geagan, 47; Vincent James Costa, 42; Joseph F. McGinnis, 52; Adolph Maffie, 45; Henry Baker, 50; James I. Faherty, 45, and Thomas F. Richardson, 49.

Others accused of participating in the robbery; Joseph "Specs" O'Keefe, 48, who has pleaded guilty, and two men now dead—Stanley Gusciora, 36, and Joseph Banfield, 45.

After the jury is picked, it will be Doyle who will tell the story of what happened at the Brink's three-story concrete garage headquarters in Boston's North End at about 7 p.m. on Jan. 17, 1950.

Less than $85,000 of the loot has been recovered.

Jailed on Charge Of Beating Baby

A 22-year-old Atlanta man was jailed Sunday night on charges of beating his 5-month-old son. Delmas Monday, 577 Rankin St., NE, was held on a disorderly conduct-assault on a minor charge after his wife told police he beat the baby while it was lying in its crib.

Mrs. Dorothy Monday told police she left her husband alone in the house with the child for about half an hour Sunday. She said when she returned, she found her husband gone and the child showing marks of a beating on his head.

The child, Keith Lennox Monday, was treated at Grady Hospital and dismissed. Hospital attendants said his condition was "good."

600 Attend Camp Meet At Ben Hill

Approximately 600 persons attended traditional camp meeting services Sunday at Mt. Gilead site at Ben Hill.

Morning, afternoon and evening evangelistic services were presented by Atlanta area religious leaders. Dr. George King, East Point Methodist; Dr. Norman O. Shands, West End Baptist, and Dr. Mack Stokes, Emory University, led the gatherings. Other sessions are scheduled at 8 p.m. week days through Friday, Aug. 17.

The Mt. Gilead Camp Meeting is one of the oldest open air gatherings in Georgia. Four others have been scheduled. One, the annual White Oak Camp Meeting, also began Sunday and will end next Sunday. Dr. W. Paul Worley of Emory University is the guest preacher. The Rev. W. M. Tribble Jr. conducts a Bible study each morning. The camp is located on the Wrightsboro Road near Thomson.

Other camps are scheduled at Sandy Springs Methodist Church, Aug. 19; Marietta Camp Ground, Aug. 10; and Indian Springs Holiness Camp Ground at Flovilla, opening Aug. 9.

Sheriff Harris Remains on Critical List

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. Aug. 5 (AP)—Sheriff Bill Harris of Savannah, Ga., was still on the critical list at the San Bernardino Community Hospital Sunday suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Doctors reported no significant change in his condition. He was reported somewhat improved Saturday after an operation but was expected to remain on the critical list for several days.

The wife of the Chatham County sheriff was at his bedside. She was flown west in a National Guard plane made available by Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin.

Police said the sheriff was injured Thursday night when the car he was driving hit the rear of a truck and trailer stopped on a highway in the Mojave Desert. Five others were injured less seriously.

Harris is a native of Knoxville, Tenn., and formerly worked on newspapers in Savannah and Atlanta.

British Paratroopers Sail As Egypt Calls Reserves

way stations as troop-laden trains pulled out, and there were crowds lining the docks at the big naval base of Portsmouth to give the boys a sendoff.

Other troops were on the move. An advance party of the 21st Medium Royal Artillery Regiment left Edinburgh for the south of England amid speculation it had been ordered to the Mediterranean. The engines of the aircraft carrier Bulwark were being warmed up to sail tomorrow.

GO IT ALONE IF MUST

These were only a part of the preparations by Britain and France, on a go-it-alone basis if necessary, to protect the maritime highway to the Middle East and Far East from the lone-handed control of Nasser.

British and French newspapers continued to declare that their governments must not bend before Nasser as they did before Hitler at Munich.

There was guarded hope among diplomats that a negotiated settlement might be worked out with Egypt to keep Suez under international authority. Reports reaching here said Nasser was having second thoughts about rejecting outright the American-British-French invitation to the 24-nation conference called here for Aug. 16.

NASSER MAY BIND

A close friend of Nasser reported yesterday the Egyptian President was determined to fight rather than turn the vital waterway back to international control. But one well-placed diplomat suggested he might agree to send an observer at least to the conference, though he might refuse to bind Egypt to conference decisions.

The British, French and Americans were reported, meanwhile, to be formulating concrete proposals for the international Suez authority which they want set up.

The authority, it was reported, would consist of nine or 10 countries which depend most upon Suez, and would be nonprofit. Revenues from canal tolls would be used to pay off stockholders in the old Suez Canal Co., which Nasser has nationalized, pay royalties to Egypt and maintain and improve the waterway.

HOLD LEBANON ARMS

The British government withdrew export licenses for a shipload of military supplies that had been consigned to Lebanon after Liverpool dockworkers refused to load them on the Egyptian ship Sar of Luxor.

French Defense Minister Maurice Bourges-Maunoury told a Radical Socialist party rally at Perpignan, France, that North African nationalism was a "racial and religious coalition against Europe" and "must be destroyed in the Egyptian egg."

Fortunately, he said, "the art of dictators is to pick the moment and Nasser has chosen wrong."

GAINS WORLD SUPPORT

Nasser's actions, however, continued to win strong support from Arab League allies and from many people among the colonial and neutral areas of the world.

A spokesman by the government of Iraq, which long has been at political loggerheads with Nasser, announced that it "stands beside Egypt." It urged that the dispute be settled peacefully.

A spokesman at Damascus, Syria, announced that Premier Sabri Assali would lead his country's delegation to an emergency meeting of the Arab League's Political Committee in Cairo next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Ike Can't Help Nixon Further, GOP Chief Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5 (INS) — Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall said today President Eisenhower feels he cannot "go any further" in his support of Vice President Nixon until he has secured his own renomination.

Hall predicted, however, that the GOP convention in San Francisco later this month "definitely" will name an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

He said Eisenhower has not flatly told him he wants Nixon as his running mate, but added the Chief Executive "had made his position clear," that Nixon is "completely acceptable" to him.

Hall appeared on the CBS-TV program, "Face the Nation," from the Cow Palace, where the convention will open Aug. 20.

West Tallies Rising Loss Over Suez

In particular, it would then be only a matter of time until Arab nationalism forces the British out of the Persian Gulf principalities now under British protection, and forces the French out of Algeria.

SACRIFICE APPARENT

If, on the other hand, they use force they will have the Arab world up in arms against them. Thus, by returning to the Suez Canal zone to protect freedom of navigation, the British might sacrifice the West's interests.

The argument is, in other words, that the British and French will be damned if they do and damned if they don't.

This view of the situation is reflected by a number of diplomats of the neutralist or uncommitted nations. Shocked by Britain's ship and troop movements, their sympathies are clearly with Egypt.

The diplomats do not expect Egypt to reject outright the bid to a conference on Suez. They think it more likely that Nasser will accept with reservations which might make his participation difficult.

SOVIET ATTITUDE

A straw in the wind as to the Soviet Union's attitude came from a Soviet diplomat who at a reception here last night observed: "Better a conference than use of force." By going to such a conference the Soviet Union would gain the advantage of seeing her interest in the Middle East finally and formally recognized.

U.S. officials meanwhile observed regretfully the extent of British and French resentment at U.S. insistence on "moderation" in the case. The accumulated irritation of the British over U.S. prodding that got them to leave Suez in the first place, U.S. official expressions of sympathy for the Greeks in the Cyprus dispute, and the suspicions of the French that the United States was working against them in North Africa, appeared to have come to focus in the Suez crisis.

Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced here today, that he has delayed his departure because of the "urgency" of the Suez canal situation.

Hiroshima Prays On Anniversary Of Bomb Blast

HIROSHIMA, Japan, Monday, Aug. 6 (AP)—Twenty thousand persons bowed their heads in prayer.

For one minute there was silence in Peace Memorial Park. Then a whirl of wings as 500 doves arched across the sky. Sirens wailed.

It was 8:15 a.m., the exact hour when an American B29 appeared over Hiroshima 11 years ago today and released the first atom bomb ever dropped on an enemy city.

"The tragedies of Hiroshima shall not be repeated," Mayor Taduo Watanabe told the gathering.

"The tragedies of Hiroshima shall not be repeated," the crowd chorused in return.

Police say 73,150 died in the great fiery blast that ushered in the atomic age. The city says 240,000 to 260,000. More than 53,000 have been confirmed.

Today's 30 minute ceremony ended with everyone singing "Sons of Peace."

He said he will remain in the United States "for two or three days in the course of which I will maintain contact with my own government, with Mr. Dulles and with the United Kingdom."

I will then be in a position to determine what next move should make."

which have such a wide range of error."

Move would not say definitely that Nixon is the best vice presidential prospect the Republicans have. He said that some of the vice president's statements have not been politically sound. "But all in all, I am for Nixon," he said.

Harry Sommers of Atlanta, long a Republican leader here, called Stassen's attempt to replace Nixon "a great disservice to the party" and "a mistake at this time."

W. B. Shartzler, chairman of the Georgia Republican committee, could not be reached for comment. He was reported already on the way to San Francisco to the convention.

Meanwhile, Stassen was claiming growing support for the dump-Nixon campaign. He said on a national television program that six delegates to the Republican convention have already said they will stand with him in opposing Nixon.

He named his backers as Carl Stiefel of Missouri; Robert Bradford, former governor of Massachusetts; W. Clay Howard of Kentucky; Elliott A. Carter of New Hampshire; Richard A. Hanson of Minnesota and Edison Mathews Jr. of New Jersey.

HONG KONG, Aug. 5 — The Royal Lao government has agreed to consider peace terms offered by a pro-Communist northern Pathet Laos forces delegation to unify the country, the Pieping radio reported tonight.

Five points proposed by Pathet Laos were accepted at a meeting last Thursday and are now being studied by royalists leaders, the broadcast said. The five points of settlement were named as the questions of:

1. Freedom, democracy and free participation in electioneering campaigns.
2. Legitimate interests of Pathet Laos forces.
3. Nationwide free general elections and a coalition government.
4. Peace and neutrality and the five principles of peaceful co-existence, and
5. Settlement of the question of the two provinces of Samneua and Phongsaly through peaceful means.

Nixon Urges Church Ease Race Tension

demagoguery will aggravate, not solve the problem.

"The churches can help create the climate of understanding and good will which is essential for the implementation of the law of the land."

Nixon said the churches can do much to clarify the thinking of those who look on the current "cold war" between the Communist nations and the free world as just "a struggle for power and world domination."

"There is a vital difference," he said, "between political neutrality and moral neutrality in the present conflict of ideals."

"If a nation chooses to be politically neutral, we may disagree with the wisdom of its course," he said, although he added that the Chinese Communist invasion of Burma "should be a solemn warning to those who believe that neutrality is a guarantee against Communist aggression."

Democratic Chiefs Expect Unity on Civil Rights Plank

hower after the GOP nomination session to be "quiet significant."

Although he denied that he was "party" to such speculation, he added: "I certainly feel that there is a possibility that the President's health and his disinclination to put himself on the block for those around him... may result in his not going on through after he has the nomination."

That there will be an early ballot nomination is the contention of backers of Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the unsuccessful 1952 nominee, whose front-running position was strengthened last week by the withdrawal of Sen. Kefauver (Tenn.) as a candidate.

ADLAI MEN SAY 2ND

Stevenson's backers are talking of a possible first ballot nomination if enough "favorite sons" withdraw and switch their votes after complimentary gestures have been made in their direction. They say they are certain of a second ballot victory.

The Stevenson claim is challenged by backers of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, whose supporters appear determined to press for a stronger civil rights plank than southern or the "moderate" backers of Stevenson would favor. How far the Harriman forces will go in this direction is up for decision at a meeting of his campaign managers tomorrow morning.

The supporters of Stevenson believe that Harriman is willing to risk a southern bolt to force his own civil rights views into the platform and they think this strategy is essential to the nomination of the New York governor.

But the Stevenson men also claim enough votes to block Harriman.

HEARINGS TODAY

Tomorrow afternoon, the platform committee meets in the Blackstone Hotel to start hearings on issues the Democrats wish to stress in the campaign to deny President Eisenhower a second term. Rep. John McCormack of (Mass), himself a "favorite son" candidate for president and the Democratic leader of the house of representatives, will be chairman of the resolutions committee that will draft the party manifesto.

Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi, who will represent his state on the platform committee, said on arrival today he was "encouraged" by the prospects of compromise that would be equally satisfactory to the North and to the South.

"It can be done," said Coleman. "The question is, will it be done?" He said the pre-convention atmosphere is encouraging because southerners are not trying to start any fights but are "inviting fair treatment from the other states."

It is the claim of Harriman's managers that Stevenson, already beaten once by Eisenhower, can't win this time either, especially if the Democrats pursue the "moderate" course that Stevenson has urged upon them. Loyd Benefield, national director of the Harriman for President headquarters, said the party can win only if its candidate fights for "what is right and just."

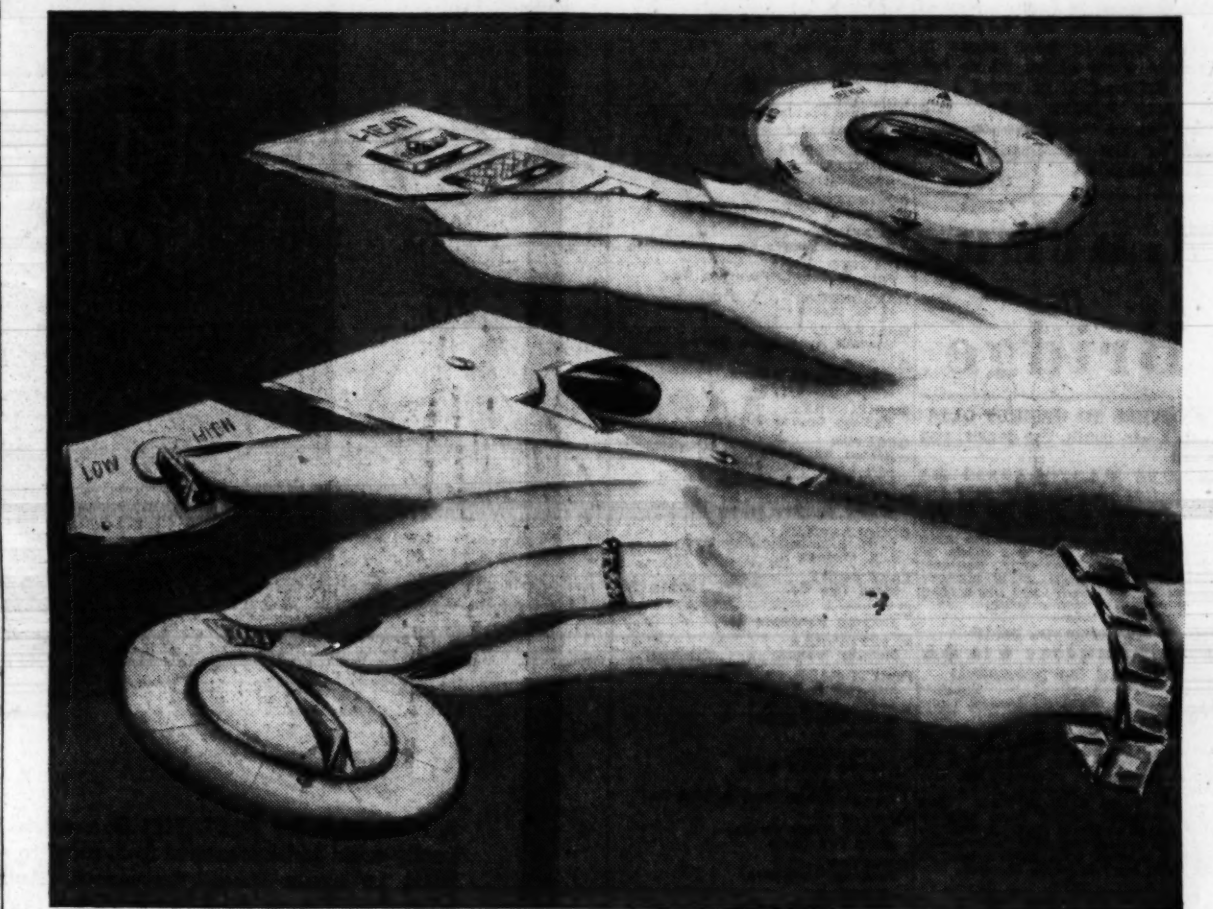

AGRICULTURE FIRST

"Harriman is not bucking the tide of progress to pacify prejudice," said Benefield. "Harriman is not standing 'moderately' astride any fences."

When the platform committee assembles tomorrow, it will tackle first the question of agriculture and whether the Eisenhower administration has kept its 1952 promises to farmers. That this is likely to be a major campaign issue was conceded today by Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman, who said on the Face the Nation (CBS) TV program that the Democratic congress had blocked Eisenhower's program at the expense of farmers.

While backers of Stevenson increased their first ballot strength estimates nearer the 68 2/3 majority required for nomination, Harriman's headquarters said that the New Yorker now had 341 votes insured on the first ballot.

One of the impediments is whether former President Truman will give active and open support to Harriman when he needs it before the Stevenson bandwagon gains too much momentum. The former president, just back from a tour of Europe, is due here on Thursday to speak to the platform committee on foreign policy questions. He also will address the convention next week.

KEEP WELL

Proper Diet
Can Aid in Keeping Cool

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

There is more to beating the heat than taking a cold shower, going swimming, eating an ice cream cone or sitting in an air-conditioned office or movie theater.

Other things can be done to make the heat more tolerable, such as dressing appropriately. Women have less trouble along this line than men.

Food adds fuel to the furnace and on stifling days we ought to keep the fire low. There is no need to live on salads and sandwiches but the body will generate less heat if we eat sensibly. Some foods yield less energy than others.

A recent survey showed that carbohydrates and sugar produce the most energy, followed by proteins and fats. If this is so, we should consume more fats during hot weather and fewer carbohydrates.

One drawback to this is that fats are high in calories and, to maintain normal weight, the total intake of food should be reduced.

Fatigue is common during the summer and usually is blamed on the heat. Actually too little food may be the cause because the individual does not feel like eating.

Are hot drinks more cooling than food beverages? When the thermometer is high the body has all it can do to keep the temperature at a constant 98.6 degrees.

There is no doubt that evaporation of sweat is nature's way of cooling the body and, in this respect, there is some merit in drinking a cup of hot tea or coffee. But most of us sweat a lot in warm weather anyway and there is no advantage in augmenting the secretion with a piping hot drink.

BridgeANSWERS TO WEEKLY QUIZ
Q. 1—As South, the dealer, you hold:

♠KQ86 ♥A97 ♦A9832 ♣A5

What is your opening bid?

A.—In order to avoid any embarrassment with your rebid it is best to treat your suits as being of the same length and open with one spade. If partner responds two clubs, you can rebid two diamonds or if his response is two hearts, you are strong enough to give him a raise.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠863 ♥AKQJ987 ♦73 ♣A

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 diam. Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two hearts. Hands of opening bid strength featuring a long solid suit frequently lend themselves to more convenient treatment on the later rounds of bidding. If an immediate jump shift is made, this hand requires merely some reasonable spade strength from partner to produce a slam and that information can be elicited with greater ease if the "big bid" is made at once.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠KQJ ♥AK742 ♦865 ♣QJ

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 heart Pass 2 clubs Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. If you had a high honor in diamonds the correct rebid would be two no trump, but such calls should be avoided by the opening bidder with an unstopped suit. Two hearts is an underbid but partner is unlikely to pass with any holding that will produce a game.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠QJ4 ♥AKQ2 ♦KQ64 ♣73

Your right hand opponent opens the bidding with three hearts.

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. This is an awkward situation, but there is no desirable action available to you. A double may elicit an unsatisfactory response from partner and an overall of three no trump does not look appealing. Be content with a small profit on this hand.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠K87532 ♥63 ♣KJ974

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 diam. Pass 1 spade Pass

2 spades Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Now that spades have been raised your hand has become worth 14 points (counting 1 for the fifth spade and 2 for the sixth). No further pressure should be placed on partner.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠AK103 ♥5 ♦A41094 ♣A86

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 diam. Pass 1 no trump Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand is technically a shade short of the requirements for a reverse which normally shows 15 points, but all your points are of "top drawer" quality and you have very good intermediate cards. Furthermore, there is no satisfactory alternative rebid.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠A2 ♥KQ32 ♦J107 ♣K1032

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 spade Pass Pass 2 diam. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. Any stronger bid would be highly indiscreet. Partner has merely responded the bidding and his action may have been dictated by a reluctance to permit the opposition to buy the contract at such a bargain price. If he does hold sound values your call will induce him to bid further.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠J ♥AKQ109 ♦AJ87652

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 diam. Pass 1 no trump Pass 3 hearts Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The normal procedure at this point would be to rebid the hearts thus showing five hearts and at least six diamonds. However, we feel that a rebid of four diamonds may produce better results on this particular hand for if partner is able to raise to five, we can bid a slam with a reasonable assurance of making it. A rebid of four hearts may induce partner to pass with some mediocre hand containing fair diamond support.

Depression-Hungry Music Student Now Feeds a Million Every Year

By AGNES McCARTY
(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 5 — The daughter of a Newfoundland sea captain went into the restaurant business during the depression to assure herself three square meals a day. She now provides a million meals each year for hungry customers.

The petite restaurateur, Patricia Murphy, has originated four highly successful eating places, in Brooklyn, Manhattan, Manhasset, L.I., and Yonkers.

Now, in what she calls semi-retirement, she has sold all except the Yonkers establishment. Here she "takes it easy" by looking after 300 employees and several acres of prize winning plants.

TO STUDY MUSIC

Young Miss Murphy left Placentia, Nfld., where her father and grandfather were codfishermen, to study music in New York. A marine earthquake killed the cod one year, cutting off 19-year-old Patricia's income from home. She found herself with 26 cents and a still unpolished piano-playing talent.

"I earned one meal a day by playing during luncheon at a cafeteria near Columbia University," she related. "I wasn't good enough to play for dinner. They had an established concert pianist holding down that job for the same pay as mine."

By painting Christmas cards, and distributing soap samples, she built up a $60 capital. At that time she was living in a friend's home in Brooklyn. On the same street was a small tea-room where she often ate a budget meal.

One evening, she found her favorite retreat closed. She pounded on the door, brought out the cook who was packing up, and learned the place was closing because business was so bad.

"People were pretty hard-hit for eating-out money in 1931," she recalls.

Opportunity had knocked as far as Patricia was concerned. She offered the cook a job, made a deal with the landlord to pay $25 a week—at the end of the week—for his space and equipment, and then retired to her room with a thick American cookbook.

She adds: "I didn't know anything about the tastes of Americans, except they all seemed to like hot bread and such mysterious delicacies as apple brown betty and prune whip."

POPOVERS

She decided on popovers as the hot bread because they could be made quickly and required very inexpensive ingredients.

Her Yonkers restaurant on Central avenue, built along New Orleans Colonial lines, now distributes popovers at the rate of 10,000 a day.

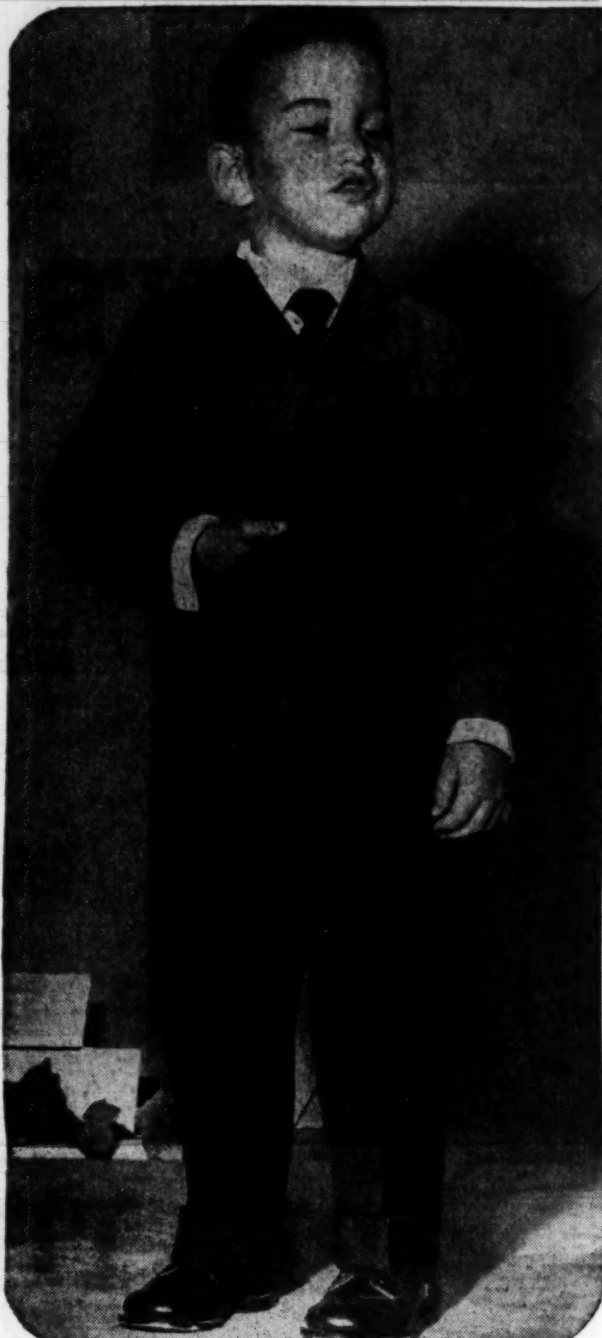

She is married to Capt. James E. Kierman (U.S.N. Ret). The captain, a strapping gray-haired man who prefers to talk about the sea, describes the eating habits of New Yorkers and suburbanites this way: "In Brooklyn we had a meat and potato crowd. Manhattanites watched their figures—they ate salads. Long Islanders liked steaks and onions. In Yonkers they eat pretty much over the menu, but they prefer fancy fish—shrimp and lobster."

DREAM PLACE

The Yonkers restaurant, completed two years ago, the restaurateur calls her "dream place" because she had the building designed to satisfy her every whim.

An artificial lake, elaborate gardens and greenhouse, dining rooms in gold or pink, waiters that sing greetings while they carry in cakes for diners celebrating special occasions, winsome waitresses wearing wreaths of flowers, lavish displays of orchids, a cashier who never clanks change but extracts it discreetly from a black lacquered desk and plenty of ribsticking food, moderately priced, all stem from what she calls, "my unerring ability to tell what the American people go for. Thank God!"

Dinner Hats, Beautiful and Big Are Flattering, Plain or Fancy

For more years than most of us can now remember, the words "dinner hat" has been synonymous with beautiful little nothings for the top of the head. That's all changed now and the new dinner hats are beautiful still, but big. And much to my surprise I'm already seeing smart women wearing big hats dining in the chic restaurants here in New York.

I think the newest of these big hats are those of black velvet, manipulated into beautiful dipping shapes that can't help but flatter the wearers. The smartest are absolutely plain, but there are plenty of others with feathers, or with tulle or lace.

Miss Hulsey, Rev. Walker Are Married

The First Baptist Church of Buford formed the setting for the marriage on Sunday afternoon of Miss Betty Anne Hulsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Hulsey of Buford, to the Rev. Charles Orville Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy D. Walker of East Point.

The Rev. Jack Tatum officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception given in the church parlor by Mr. and Mrs. Hulsey.

Mrs. Robert Styles attended her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Margie Haynie of Atlanta was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Miss Etie Jeanne Johnson of Atlanta and Brazil; Mrs. Harold Lee Hulsey of Chamblee, and Mrs. Harold B. Withers of McRae.

Melva Jane Hulsey was flower girl. Mr. Hulsey gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of lace and tulle over satin, the portrait neckline being outlined in pearls and sequins. Her illusion veil fell from a crown of lace traced in pearls and sequins, and her flowers were a bouquet of rubrum lilies and stephanotis.

Willis Walker was best man for his brother, and serving as ushers and groomsmen were Harold Lee Hulsey of Chamblee; the Rev. Harold B. Withers of McRae; the Rev. James G. Crouch of Huntington, W. Va., and the Rev. Joe M. Thomas of Baton Rouge, La.

Mrs. Ralph C. Dalton kept the bride's book at the reception. After a wedding trip, the couple will live in Abbeville where Mr. Walker is pastor of the Baptist church.

Terrace Circle Garden Club meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 8, at the home of Mrs. W. A. Burgess at 1432 Franklin Cir., NE. George C. Newberry will speak.

SISTERS TEAM-UP IN A FASHION TRIO OF MATCHING SEPARATES
Judy and Marcy Moldow Wear Fancy Pants, Skirt and Bodice With Scarf-Collar Blouses

Nighties, Dress and Play Clothes, Ivy League Look in Fashion Show

By MARY GRAY ANDERSON

Approximately 30 Atlanta girls and boys will model new fall fashions at a benefit show for other children at the Standard Town and Country Club Wednesday, at 1 p.m.

The annual affair is sponsored by the Atlanta alumnae chapter of Sigma Delta Tau social sorority, to raise funds for an Atlanta children's speech school.

The young models, ranging in age from toddlers to teens, will give a colorful preview of fall fashions, which will include plaid cottons for school days, coordinated costumes for dress-up and play, new petticoats to add to the lady-like look of the little girls' dresses and sleepers that are fun to wear on cold winter nights.

IVY LEAGUE LOOK

The show also will include fashions for the little man who likes to dress in the Ivy League manner.

Judy Moldow and her sister, Marcy, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. Sidney Moldow, will model a team of separates in the golden shades of autumn.

Marcy will wear a quilted cotton skirt and separate vest that looks like a one-piece jumper. The full skirt in a toasted brown color is accented with corduroy leaves in gold and green. More color is added with a band of corduroy at the front of the elasticized waistband.

FANCY PANTS

The matching quilted, sleeveless and scooped neck bodice that buttons up the back could also be worn with Judy's fancy pants. The girls will wear twin blouses. They are gold cotton with scarfed collars, and self-covered buttons.

Little Susan Jacobson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Jacobson, will show how to look like a little lady this fall. She's decked out in a navy cotton, and completes the outfit with white gloves and a handbag like mother's.

The dress has a sailor collar and sleeves edged in red and white. A white bib gives a bright touch to the neckline. Big pearl buttons start at the collar of the navy dress and run all the way down to the hem of the full, box-pleated skirt. This pleating gives the skirt a bouffant look with flatness in front and puffing out on each side.

SPORT COAT, SLACKS

Gary Dreyfuss, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Jack Dreyfuss, is one of the members of the fashion show who will model clothes for the well-dressed male. Four-year-old Gary will wear an interpretation of the Ivy League look in sport coat and slacks.

The coat is bright red corduroy with touches of black via the buttons and the back of the collar. The coat is teamed up with black chino cloth slacks, French-cuffed white shirt and black knit tie.

Mrs. Moldow, of 1074 Robin Lane, NE, is in charge of ticket sales for this benefit show that will be followed by a social hour and refreshments.

The children's fashions shown are available in Atlanta. For shopping information call WA. 5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed post card to the Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

"I LIKE WHAT THEY SAY BEHIND MY BACK!"

Mrs. C. S., Michigan City, Indiana.

"My hair is prematurely gray. At first, I was terribly self-conscious about it. I felt as though people were talking behind my back."

"But now I've learned that my gray hair can be truly attractive. My secret is Silver Curl... the home permanent that's custom-made for gray and white hair. What a wonderful difference it's made! Silver Curl gives me the softest, most manageable waves ever. And it's a good, long-lasting permanent, too."

"Now, thanks to Silver Curl, I like what they're saying behind my back! In fact, I've overheard some wonderful compliments!"

EASY TO DO! Even if you've never had a home permanent, you can have a Silver Curl with ease. Silver Curl is self-neutralizing... no extra steps. You just apply waving lotion... wind up curls... rinse and let dry. That's all!

GOOD NEWS! Silver Curl by Toni has Fresh Air Waving Lotion... odor-free as a wave can be! And it gives a longer-lasting wave than any other home permanent.

DRUG LATE STORES

Celestine Sibley Could Happen To Anybody

Because it is by no means an unusual case, I hesitated for a time to write about it. And yet the fact that it happens all the time, that it could happen to nearly any of us who live on a narrow margin of financial security, makes it something you can't ignore.

As I listened to the details, I had that old, "There but for the grace of God..." feeling that comes to most of us on more occasions than we like to acknowledge.

This time it happens to be the predicament of a Carroll County family—Mr. and Mrs. Warner Carroll and their four children.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll and three of the youngsters were out on the highway in their old car—1940 model machine; it was one rainy night a little over a week ago. I guess in the rain either the road or the tires, or both, were slick. Anyhow, the car skidded out of control and ended up overturned in the ditch with four members of the family badly hurt.

People who came along to help them meant well but, as I understand it, made the mistake of moving Mrs. Carroll before the ambulance arrived and she is in an Atlanta hospital with her chest crushed, a broken arm and a leg so severely mangled she may lose it.

Mr. Carroll has a broken leg, and two little girls, ages 7 and 9, received head injuries.

They were all taken to the Carroll County Hospital, but because Mrs. Carroll was so badly hurt, physicians sent her on to a private hospital in Atlanta, where she has required special nursing day and night.

Now the burden of one slow hospitalization on a family is terrible—but what does a family do when four of its six members require constant, expensive care? (The oldest child, an 11-year-old boy, was visiting his grandparents at the time of the wreck, and the baby, a 5-year-old, was miraculously unhurt.)

A Decatur woman who has known the Carrolls for a long time told me that friends and relatives, none of them financially able, have been keeping the special nurses paid for Mrs. Carroll, but they have already exhausted their resources. Mr. Carroll was a dairy worker whose earnings apparently were stretched to the uttermost to cover his family's daily needs.

"I want to tell you about Mrs. Carroll," her Decatur friend told me. "She is one of the finest women I have ever known, with high spirits and jolliness through the years when there was absolutely nothing to be jolly about. Now she is facing amputation of her leg, if she lives. She is a worthy person and an important person to that little brood of children—but what will happen to her and to them now that the money has run out?"

It's a problem, as I said, by no means new. Every week or so we hear of cases where children or, worse yet, the breadwinners in a family are in hospitals running up bills they can't hope to pay, requiring medicine they can't buy. It's a bit more unusual to have nearly all members of a family in a hospital, although that has happened, too.

I have searched for an agency or an individual who might help the Carrolls. So far I have found none. But it could be that I've overlooked some possible help. If anybody has any suggestions I'd be glad to relay them to this family.

Daily Guide—The new moon in the dramatic sign Leo ushers in a very exciting few weeks when the actors in the big show will make their entrances and exits. There can be interesting complications because Mars, who is making a six-month transit in the sign Pisces, is also closer to the earth than usual, and will be in apparent reverse motion after Friday.

This is a highly optimistic few days with the sky the limit. Buying, selling and traveling are favored.

Happy Birthday, Leo! This should be a high mark of activity for you, marking this year as one to remember. There is a change due, or many of them, so don't expect to settle down for a few years yet.

Few-Motz Marriage Solemnized

Only the members of the immediate families witnessed the marriage of Miss Kathleen Russell Few, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Few of Starkville, Miss., to Frederick Marshall Motz, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Motz Sr. of Decatur, which was solemnized yesterday at St. Philip's Cathedral.

The Rev. Norman Gore officiated at the nuptial service. The couple was attended by Miss Ida Myrtle Messer of Hogsansville as maid of honor, and James Henry Motz Jr. as best man.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white corded organza frock and hand-made lace cap. She carried a white satin-covered prayer book adorned with a cluster of stephanotis. For the traditional "something old," the bride wore the engagement ring that belonged to her grandmother, the late Mrs. Nevitt Fant of Walhalla, S.C.

"Although medical science has made unbelievable strides, the patient, himself, is one of the greatest aids to his recovery. His faith in himself, his doctor and a higher power bring unexplainable but marvelous effects"—Medical column quote.

Most every person has some fear . . . we may deny it, but it's clear . . . as daylight on a mountain-peak . . . the rich, the poor, the strong, the weak . . . are sometimes fearfully disturbed . . . by doubts and fears that can't be curbed . . . and though we're "wonderfully made" . . . there's something in us that's afraid.

Can we live peacefully within . . . this mansion that is lined with skin . . . and framed with bones? . . . Can we make peace . . . with all, including the police? . . . They say we can, if we can trust . . . in something that is more than dust.

The physical and mental powers . . . which we so proudly claim as "ours" . . . will fail, don't ask me how I know . . . A "Little birdie" told me so . . . and, in my time, I've seen a lot . . . of "self-sufficient" go to pot.

So don't be like some infidel . . . no faith in heaven or fear of hell . . . or what's above, or what's below . . . "All dressed up and no place to go."

ABC's 10-Oz. TV Camera To Squint at Conventions

By RICHARD F. SHEPARD
(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 5—ABC has come up with a 10-ounce television camera through which it will squint at the forthcoming political conventions.

Engineers of the three networks have been thinking big on tiny cameras that can be taken unobtrusively around the politician-packed halls. CBS has announced a pound and a half camera and NBC has a four-pounder that has a 15-pound portable transmitter that frees it from the control room.

The newly acquired ABC pi-pesque must be linked to a home base by a half-inch cable. The camera is four-inches long and two inches in diameter.

Resembling a flashlight, the model is manufactured by a West German concern for the task of inspecting boiler tubes, into which it can easily be lowered. The tube, according to the network, is the smallest ever made. The lens is only a quarter-inch in diameter.

Fordel Films, Inc., has developed a way to wire actors for sound, thereby cutting production time and costs.

The performer makes a tape recording of the script before

PEGGY, ALAN Vic Damone To Feature Kingly Pair

Special to The Constitution
NEW YORK, Aug. 5—Vic Damone will be joined by a kingly combination when Peggy King, perky songstress, and Alan King appear as special guests on the Vic Damone Show on CBS-TV (WAGA-TV) at 8:30 p.m.

Among the musical highlights of the program will be the introduction of a new song that Vic brought back from Italy, "Speak, My Love." Written by Italian composer Edo Vardoli, the song received an award in Milan in 1954 for being the best melody of the year. The English lyrics were written by 21-year-old Roberta Heller. Vic has recorded the number for Columbia records with the orchestra of Tutti Camarata.

Other selections on the show will include Vic singing "The Soliloquy" from "Carousel"; Peggy doing "Too Close for Comfort" and Vic and Peggy joining in a duet of "The Trolley Song."

What makes a man succeed

"After years of observing human nature, I have concluded that two qualities make the difference between a leader and a man of average performance. 'Everyone was born with them—but most of us have allowed them to wither in us.' In August Reader's Digest a leading executive reveals these two priceless assets, and suggests how you can reawaken them within yourself.

Bins & Equipment Co. Plans Efficient Storage Systems

For 30 years, Bins & Equipment Co., Inc., has helped countless businesses and industries throughout the Southeast territory to keep their houses in perfect order through carefully planning, designing, and installing storage equipment that will best suit any given space or product.

"We also maintain here in Atlanta a complete stock of the most popular sizes of Interior Steel Lockers for immediate delivery," says Sam Neuberger, head of this company located at 1918 Buford Highway, N.E.

Bins & Equipment Co., Inc. distributes the Interior Steel Lockers which feature pleasing design, rugged construction, and lifelong service. Schools, clubs, institutions, swimming pools, gymnasiums, building contractors, industrial plants, offices, or any place where the people desire privacy or security of personal belongings, are finding these lockers very practical. Among the most popular styles of Interior Steel Lockers in use in this area are the full length single tier, which provides ample individual full-length storage; the half length double tier, which accommodates twice as many people in the same amount of floor space; and the golf locker, with double doors hinged to swing right and left. This latter type is now in use in many golf clubs in the Southeast. This double-width type features a small compartment that can be locked to give added protection to valuable personal effects.

"Many leading hospitals in Atlanta are using our Interior Steel Lockers," said Mr. Neuberger, "as well as the most prominent educational and industrial institutions. Our engineering and estimating facilities are offered to architects and school boards for HIGHLY VERSATILE—The Sturdi-Bilt Pallet Rack is designed and constructed to keep pace with the growing, changing industries of a dynamic economy. "These storage racks offer unlimited possibilities," says Mr. Sam Neuberger of Bins & Equipment Co., Inc., who distributes these storage racks in this area. "You can expand storage facilities vertically or horizontally to make best use of your available space. They are so versatile and flexible that any industry can meet almost any storage requirement with them quickly and easily. We maintain an adequate stock of storage equipment right here in Atlanta." If your needs include rapid expansion of storage facilities, call Bins & Equipment Co. You'll see rows of neat, rugged storage racks assembled so fast you'll find it hard to believe your eyes.

Information and assistance in preparing plans, layouts and specifications on installations of locker equipment."

Other popular lines carried by Bins & Equipment Co., Inc., are Sturdi-Bilt Bulk Bins and Sturdi-Bilt Pallet Racks, which feature the exclusive floating wedge lock. The Bulk Bin is the simplest, most versatile, and most economical storage bin to be used wherever goods are stored by hand. They come in many combinations of sizes, and have the necessary strength for any required load. Putting them up and taking them down is simple, because the floating wedge lock makes the erection of this rigid structure possible in a short time without having to use tools or special labor of any kind. "This flexibility adapts the storage unit to all types, sizes and shapes of goods," Mr. Neuberger observes, "holding waste space to an absolute minimum."

Besides Interior Steel Lockers and Sturdi-Bilt Storage Racks and Bulk Bins, Bins & Equipment Co., Inc. also carries Borooughs Flexi Bins and Unitized Flexi Steel Shelving; steel cabinets,

Wide Range of Merchandise On Display

Buyers representing many different business concerns are visiting M. Ellman & Co.'s annual Gift Show, now being held on the Mezzanine floor of the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

The Show began yesterday and will continue through tomorrow until 9 p.m. Business representatives are invited to come in and choose from a tremendous display of handsome gift items.

The Show features hundreds of outstanding gift items for every member of the family. In assembling the merchandise for this premier exhibition, M. Ellman & Co. has utilized to good advantage their many contacts among the nation's manufacturers. The result is a mammoth array of sparkling merchandise that is probably unsurpassed in this region.

On display are new and different gift items for mother, dad, sister and brother. Abe Lewis, sales manager, M. Ellman & Co., Inc., emphasizes that "this show is not a catalog presentation . . . but merchandise that you can see and appreciate . . . not a haphazard selection of obsolete items, but gifts of unusual attractiveness that will be appreciated by all who receive them."

M. Ellman & Co., Inc., whose headquarters is at 197-199 Mitchell St., S.W., Atlanta, is presenting this show to lighten the burden of business executives and purchasing department heads whose duties call for the selecting and buying of gift items for sales contest incentives, Christmas gifts, awards, special events, etc. Such gifts should be distinctive, yet have wide appeal—and always be in good taste. M. Ellman & Co., Inc., takes the perplexity and time-consuming hard work out of the job of gift buying for commercial firms. No need to pore over half a dozen catalogs and then worry if you "guessed right." Ellman specializes in this field, therefore makes

Famous 'Scotsman' Ice Maker Pays for Itself—Norton

Installation of eight new "Scotsman" automatic ice machines is an important feature of the extensive remodeling and expansion program now under way at the Biltmore hotel.

These machines, designed to provide approximately 5,000 lbs. of clean, crystal-clear ice for every use at the Biltmore, were installed by the Norton Distributing Co., 312 East Paces Ferry Rd., NE, which distributes the famous Scotsman line in Georgia. This firm already has installed more than 500 Scotsman machines throughout the state, and because they reduce ice cost up to 90 per cent, the Scotsman literally "pays for itself" in 12 months or less.

"There's a Scotsman automatic ice maker for every need," points out W. J. Norton, head of the firm. "Whether you require 100 pounds or a ton of ice daily, we have the correct size and model to do the job."

Perhaps the greatest feature of the Scotsman automatic ice maker is that it saves the user money as it pays for itself. Scotsman ice makers will furnish you 100 pounds of pure, clean ice at a cost of from six to 10 cents. No waste! The Norton Distributing Co. features both Scotsman "Super Cubers" and "Super Flakers." The Super Cuber makes ice cubes which are round, compact and perfectly shaped to meet the widest variety of uses. They fit easily in any size of glass . . . uniform

SUPER CUBER—This is Scotsman Model SC-500, producing up to 500 pounds per day, or up to 9,000 cubes daily. Completely automatic storage type, and is one of many popular models sold and installed by Norton Distributing Co.

In size, batch after batch, making it an easy-to-handle ice cube for all needs. The Scotsman Super Flaker produces hard, dry, individual bits of pure ice. They never freeze or clump together, never get "mushy," never get hard to handle. There are no sharp edges to cause injuries or damage. And Scotsman-flaked ice is 100 per cent pure!

"Scotsman ice makers are now used in many different establishments," said Mr. Norton. "We have installed them in drug stores, restaurants, hotels, motels, drive-in theaters, fish and poultry markets, dairies, supermarkets, hospitals and institutions."

SUPER FLAKER—Model SF-3 delivers a continuous flow of "Super Flaker" ice. Ideal for users who want volume directly from the machine. Can be installed wherever ice is stored or used. For full details, call EX. 8697, Norton Distributing Co., 312 E. Paces Ferry Rd., Buckhead.

Every Scotsman ice machine operates on standard electrical connections. Installation is simple and speedy, no expensive plumbing required. Simplicity of the Scotsman mechanism assures long, trouble-free service for the user.

The Norton Distributing Co. will be glad to give free demonstrations and full details on any of its Scotsman models. Says Mr. Norton: "We can show you that you're already paying for a Scotsman—so why not own one?"

To find out how you can eliminate those ice worries—and save money—call EX. 8697, write or visit Norton Distributing Co., 312 East Paces Ferry Rd., NE, Buckhead.

Invites Public To Open House Next Sunday

Flanigan the Moving Man, Inc., has opened Atlanta's newest and most modern moving and storage concern at 643 Tenth St., NW, just off the Northside Expressway.

With an area of 200,000 cubic feet, the new warehouse is considered the most up-to-date of its type in the South. It is solidly built of brick, masonry and steel to give fireproof protection to all storage. Offices for the company executives and clerical personnel are located in the front of the building.

Flanigan the Moving Man, Inc., is recognized as "Atlanta's original North American Van Lines agent," and through this affiliation can offer expert local and long distance moving. For a number of years, Flanigan's services have included "moving you across the street or across the nation." But . . . in keeping with their expansion program, Flanigan the Moving Man, Inc., today can move your household possessions anywhere in the free world!

Flanigan's crew of trained movers and fleet of trucks are known for their ability to move merchandise quickly and carefully. If your destination is overseas, such as Germany, France, England, etc., Flanigan will pack your possessions so that they will arrive in good condition. Flanigan also moves business firms, office and plant equipment.

Storage, whether it be for overnight, or for several years, is a specialty with the Flanigan firm. Furniture is not merely tagged and stacked in the warehouse. Instead, Flanigan utilizes specially constructed 300-cubic-foot auto-stack containers. First, padding is placed around the article to be stored, then placed in these auto-stack containers. The container is then sealed with steel strapping, thus assuring the owner against vermin, fire, pilferage, etc., and is not opened until returned to the owner.

Ray Flanigan, head of Flanigan the Moving Man, Inc., cordially invites the public to attend the "Open House" celebration at his new office and warehouse this coming Sunday, August 12, between 4 and 6 p.m. A special, live telecast will originate from the warehouse located at 4 and 5. Remember the address: 643 Tenth St., NW, just off the Northside Expressway. Flanigan's telephone number is TR. 5-7781.

MODERN STORAGE FACILITIES—Flanigan the Moving Man, Inc., utilizes sturdy, fireproof Auto-Stack containers in storage warehouse, assuring customers of protection against vermin, pilfering and fire.

New Liquid Kills Roaches and Ants
Scientists recommend that you control roaches and ants the modern way—with Johnston's you want it (not a messy spray), NO-ROACH. Brushed just where the colorless, odorless coating kills these pests. It's effective for months, sanitary, and so easy to use. 8 oz., 89¢; pint, 1.69; quart, 2.98. Available at Rich's.
